Woodward Seeks Regulation of Near Beer Saloons and Clubs

Upper Alsace Is Center Of Desperate Fighting In Western War Arena

Neither Allies Nor Enemy Are Able to Hold the New Positions Captured, With Result That Position of Armies Is Unchanged.

FRENCH WIN STEINBACH, IN ALSACE, LOSE IT, AND THEN GET IT BACK AGAIN

Official Report From Berlin Shows That English Battleship Formidable Was Sunk by German Submarine, Which Escaped in Safety.

London, January 4.—Upper Alsace appears to be the center of the most important fighting in the western war arena. Violent engagements are being fought in the region of Sennheim, which the French call Cernay, about 8 miles northwest of Meulhausen.

French forces have occupied the heights around Sennheim, and also have driven the Germans out of Steinbach, a village farther to the north.

Latest news from the battle fronts indicates little activity, the lull evidently being enforced by bad weather. Steinbach, a village in upper Alsace, is in the hands of French after house to house fighting. This loss Berlin admits.

DAY'S FIGHTING MARKED BY ARTILLERY DUELS.

The day was marked by artillery duels, with occasional infantry dashes for slight gains, but the line from the Oise to the sea was almost calm.

German headquarters declares the situation on the eastern front remains unchanged, and nothing has reached London to contradict this statement.

Politically the American note still occupies a prominent position, dividing attention with speculations as to what Rumania and Italy will do. The British answer, it is expected, will be sent to Washington later this week. It is understood here that Great Britain has reached such a satisfactory understanding with Italy with regard to the trans-shipment of contraband that no cargoes destined for that country have been stopped since December 4.

NO IMPORTANT CHANGES ALONG THE VISTULA.

Both Russian and Germans admit no important change has taken place on the front along the left bank of the Vistula.

In West Galicia the Russians are making steady progress and, according to their official statement, have captured many Austrian prisoners.

Russian troops have crossed the crownland of Bukowina and occupied Suczawa, near the Austro-Rumanian frontier.

A Berlin Tageblatt correspondent at Austrian headquarters explains the recent change in the situation in Galicia by the statement that the Russians have been reinforced from Kiev. Another German correspondent says the Russians are bending every effort to reach the fortress of Cracow, but have met with repulses and heavy losses owing to the well-selected Austrian positions.

British warships have bombarded Dar-Es-Ealaam, capital of German East Africa, where it is reported much damage was inflicted and all German vessels in the harbor were disabled.

It was a German submarine which sank the British battleship Formidable New Year's day in the English channel. This announcement is made from Berlin, which was so advised by a wireless dispatch from the submarine. The Formidable, according to the same authority, met with disaster off Plymouth.

An Italian battleship and a coast guard have shelled Durazzo, Albania, where a Mussulman's committee had demanded from Essad Pasha, the provisional president, that the French and Servian ministers be handed over to them.

An attack on the city by the Mussulman rebels followed a refusal to comply with this demand and the Italian legation was appealed to for help. Both Italian and French legation officials and the members of the Italian colony have embarked on the warships.

Petrograd, January 4.—The official communication issued from general headquarters tonight follows:

"During January 3 no important change took place on the left bank of the Vistula. In many sections there have been the usual artillery engagements and secondary action.

"More desperate fighting took place on the night of January 2-3 in the region of Bolimow, where the Germans, after an energetic attack, forced one of our trenches, but were immediately dislodged from it by our counter-at-

NATIONAL DEFENSE PLANS DIVERGENT, DECLARES KNIGHT

Rear Admiral Says There Is Lack of Co-ordination Between Navy Department and Congress.

COMMITTEE APPROVES LARGE NAVY RESERVE

Leaders in Executive and Legislative Branches Confer on Uniform Policy for Army and Navy.

Washington, January 4.—Co-operation between the government's executive and legislative branches in appropriations for national defense is the object of a conference arranged today between Secretaries Garrison and Daniels and the chairmen of the senate and house military and naval committees.

The conference will be held tomorrow night, and besides the four committee chairmen, other democratic leaders have been invited. It is generally expected an effort will be made to balance the various appropriations in conformity with a general policy to promote the national defense, plans for which will be submitted to President Wilson for final approval. Various bills for increase in the regular army will be one of the principal topics.

Hear Gardner's Proposal.

While this conference was being planned, the house military committee today heard Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, advocate his proposal for a commission to investigate the country's military preparedness and the naval subcommittee wound up its work on the naval appropriation bill.

The subcommittee incorporated in the naval bill a provision creating the office of chief of operations, under the secretary of the navy, with a four-year tenure of office and to be held by a rear admiral. His duties would be to supervise all naval preparations for war emergencies. The subcommittee also provided for an increase of forty-one commissioned officers in the marine corps, and the promotion of 110 non-commissioned officers.

The administration provision to create a naval reserve, designed to produce ultimately a reserve of 25,000 former men of the navy, was adopted with amendments.

Lack of Co-ordination Charged.

Lack of co-ordination between the navy department, the Atlantic fleet and congress, is charged by Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight, in charge of the naval war college, in a report dated at Newport, December 16, and embodied in the revised record of hearings made public today by the committee. Admiral Knight's statement was brought out by telegrams sent by Secretary Daniels to Admiral Knight and to Rear Admiral Fletcher, asking "whether there is lack of co-ordination in the administration of the Atlantic fleet and what the naval war college says it should accomplish?"

While Admiral Fletcher reported the same day from New York that he knew of no lack of co-ordination at the present time and believed "that the present co-ordination meets with the war college's full approval," Admiral Knight made this statement:

"The war college believes that lack of co-ordination does exist in the fleet; between the navy department and the fleet, and between the navy department, the fleet and congress. The college does not regard this as a new situation, although it happens to be at this moment unusually acute. The remedy rests partly with the fleet, where everything that can be done already is in preparation; partly with the department, where plans already have been formulated for more extensive maneuvers than ever before, and chiefly with congress, where there already is pending a bill for a council of national defense, which, more than all other agencies combined, would make for a co-ordination of all government agencies, many of which lie far outside the fields of the navy and the navy department."

Comparative Naval Expenditures.

Among other data just added to the report of the hearing is a statement of naval expenditures for the current fiscal year, showing that while the United States appropriated $141,872,780, Great Britain appropriated $260,000,000, Germany (April to March) $114,000,000, France (January to December) $124,000,000, Russia (January to December) $129,000,000, Japan (April to March) $69,000,000, Italy (July 1 to June 30) $57,000,000. Total appropriations on account of the navy in this country from 1794 to 1914 inclusive were shown to aggregate $3,071,179,959.

Representative Gardner submitted to the military committee a series of letters exchanged by himself and Secretary Garrison in the past two or three weeks. Mr. Garrison, replying to a question as to how much the 14-inch guns of foreign navies outranged the 12-inch guns of this country's coast defenses, wrote that foreign guns

EMPLOYMENT IS GIVEN TO SEVERAL HUNDRED

Atlanta Steel Works and A. M. Robinson Company Reopen Plants.

Three Atlanta manufactories opened their doors Monday, giving employment to several hundred people.

The Atlanta Steel mill commenced work yesterday, after being shut down for the holiday season. About 900 persons found work. About 150 hands were taken back to work when the Robinson Shirt factory opened up to meet the demands of the spring orders. The factory had been idle for three months. When the entire number of the old force returns there will be about 225 employed.

The overall department of the A. M. Robinson company added about 100 workmen to its roll Monday, when full time was resumed. The factory has been running but three days a week for the last sixty days.

JAPANESE BRIDES, SAFE IN FRISCO, AWAIT HUSBANDS

San Francisco, January 4.—Seventy picture brides from Japan arrived here today to meet husbands they have never seen. Fifty more had arrived within the week. Until the husbands claim them the brides are being housed at the United States detention station.

In the eyes of the Japanese law the brides have been married. There has been an exchange of photographs, an approval by the heads of the two contracting families and a formal declaration of intention.

The brides came tagged and numbered, are correctly awarded to the right husbands and then usually are taken in hand by the Japanese association, which escorts them to the marriage license bureau, after which a religious service is held.

SCOTT AND VILLA WILL CONFER ON EL PASO BRIDGE

Washington, January 4.—Brigadier General Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, and General Villa have arranged to confer on the international bridge at El Paso with a view to arriving at an understanding that will permanently prevent further firing into American territory by Mexican factions fighting along the international line.

General Villa left Mexico City today and will arrive in El Paso Wednesday to begin negotiations with General Scott regarding the border situation.

GAIN IN GOLD AND SILVER

1914 Shows Increased Production in U. S. Over 1913.

Washington, January 4.—Gold valued at $92,823,500 in 4,490,336 fine ounces, and silver to the amount of 67,929,700 fine ounces was produced in the United States and possessions during 1914, according to a preliminary estimate today by the mint bureau and the geological survey. Gold production increased over 1913 $3,939,100 and silver by 1,128,200 fine ounces.

Senate Will Probe Recess Appointments Made by President

Judiciary Committee of the Senate Orders Inquiry Into Authority of Wilson.

Washington, January 4.—Differences between President Wilson and some senators over federal appointments culminated tonight in the senate judiciary committee ordering an inquiry into the authority of the president to make a recess appointment to fill a vacancy created during a session of congress. Senators Culberson, Reed, Brandegee and Borah were named to conduct the investigation.

This action followed the decision of the committee to recommend rejection of the appointment of Edwin G. Bland, of Kansas City, to be United States marshal for the western Missouri district. Bland was given a recess appointment to the marshalship. After the present session began his nomination was sent in, and Senator Reed has been fighting its confirmation.

Soon after the meeting of the judiciary committee the senate, in executive session, unanimously rejected the nomination of Mrs. Marjorie J. Bloom to be postmistress at Devil's Lake, N. D. Three months ago the senate refused to confirm the same nomination, and after congress adjourned the president made a recess apointment. Last month he again sent in Mrs. Bloom's nomination. He had nominated her in the first place after the appointment of her husband to the office had been rejected.

CABARET SINGER KILLS HIS WIFE IN JEALOUS RAGE

New York, January 4.—Mrs. Frances Collins was shot dead early today at her home where she lived with her husband, William, and her two brothers. The husband is locked up charged with murder.

Collins, who is a cabaret singer, and his wife quarreled early in the evening. When he returned home he heard her voice in an adjoining bedroom. He went to the door, peeped through the keyhole and saw her sitting in a man's lap. Collins demanded admission, was refused, and, it is charged, fired through the panel of the door. Mrs. Collins fell to the floor, fatally wounded.

The man in whose lap Mrs. Collins was sitting was said to be her brother, George.

HARVESTER PLANT RE-ENGAGES IDLE; TO RUN FULL TILT

Auburn, N. Y., January 4.—Officials of the Auburn plant of the International Harvester company today began engaging again employees who have been idle for many months. The plant ordinarily employs about 2,500 persons. Officials said today they expected to have the plant running at full capacity soon.

Equalization of Salaries Is Urged, and No Opposition to Bonds Is Expressed. Advocates $75,000 for Fair at Lakewood Park—Other Important Recommendations.

Atlanta is today entering upon a new administration of municipal affairs.

Mayor James G. Woodward, re-elected without opposition, heads the city government for 1915 and 1916. The new members of council and the aldermanic board are J. Lee Barnes and Edgar Dunlap, aldermen, and J. N. Renfroe, George Freeman of the third ward, W. H. Johnson, Edwin F. Johnson, Dr. J. C. White, Ed. H. Inman and Sam Freeman of the tenth ward.

Alderman I. N. Ragsdale succeeded Judge John S. Candler as mayor pro tem., and Alderman James W. Maddox is the new provisional mayor pro tem.

The administrative heads of the government are as follows:

Others Re-Elected.

Walter C. Taylor, city clerk, re-elected; James L. Mayson, city attorney, and W. D. Ellis, Jr., assistant city attorney, re-elected; James M. Fullerton, marshal, re-elected; Ed. R. Hayes, building inspector, re-elected; Thomas Evans, warden, re-elected; George Johnson, recorder, re-elected; Nym Hurt, chief of construction; Frank Smith, tax collector; J. H. Goldsmith, city comptroller, re-elected; R. C. Turner, city electrician, re-elected.

There will be no changes in the most important places in any of the departments except the tax collector's office. Sidney Ormond will succeed Frank Hammond as executive secretary to Mayor Woodward.

Atlanta's old council met at 3 o'clock Monday to finish up the business for the year and adjourned sine die.

At 7 o'clock the new council met, with Mayor Woodward presiding.

Candler Honored.

Alderman John S. Candler, mayor pro tem. during the last session, was presented with a silver loving cup by members of the old council. Councilman Charles W. Smith made the presentation speech.

Council chamber on the fourth floor of the city hall was packed when Mayor Woodward began reading his address to council. The mayor incorporated two messages in one—delivering a farewell to the old and inaugural message to the new and announced the appointment of the standing committees for the year.

The only stirring feature of the session of the new council occurred when Mayor Woodward rebuked Alderman Albert Thomson when the latter suggested that the mayor relinquish the gavel in favor of Mayor Pro Tem. Ragsdale. The mayor mistook the alderman's motion as an act of discourtesy and in a passionate outburst replied:

"You can talk more than you are worth," and forthwith called on Alderman Ragsdale to preside.

Alderman Thomson afterwards explained that he did not intend his mo-

SHIP PURCHASE BILL WINS IN TEST VOTE

By Vote of 46 to 29 Senate Makes Measure Unfinished Business — Fletcher Says Passage Would Aid Cotton

Washington, January 4.—Government purchase of ships as proposed in the administration bill to create a shipping board, finance a $10,000,000 shipping corporation and expend not to exceed $30,000,000 for the purchase or chartering of ocean carriers, became today the foremost issue before congress.

By a vote of 46 to 29 the senate made the ship purchase bill the unfinished business, to be supplanted only by appropriation bills. This action on motion of Senator Fletcher, acting chairman of the commerce committee, precipitated a showing on the part of opposition senators which gave certain indication that there were breakers ahead for the proposed legislation. Charging that an effort was being made to rush the bill with undue haste, republican senators, among them Senators Gallinger, Lodge and Root, served notice that the measure would be fought to the last ditch.

Minority Report.

Minority members of the commerce committee filed a report, written by Senator Burton and indorsed by Senators Nelson, Perkins, Smith of Michigan and Oliver, asserting that the plan proposed would not relieve shipping conditions because it would be impossible for the government to get ships enough to do any good. It pointed also to dangers of international complications arising, declaring that "every craft set afloat by the government would add one more risk of our being drawn into the present war."

Senator Fletcher, who has charge of the bill and who recently conferred with President Wilson concerning it, urged the measure in a lengthy speech after republican senators had issued their pronunciamento of opposition. He declared the war has produced a "ship famine" and that the interests of all people in the United States demanded that the government take immediate action to supply ships to carry American products demanded in the markets of Europe and South Ameri-

HARMONY IS SEEN IN APPOINTMENTS

Many Surprises Sprung by the Mayor in Heads of Committees--Eubanks Succeeds Buchanan.

Adroitness displayed by Mayor James G. Woodward in the selection of his most important standing committees for 1915, named at the first meeting of the new council, last night, is taken by politicians who have followed the trend of events during the past two years as an indication that the mayor is seeking to "heal old political wounds" and will endeavor to work in harmony with the new legislative administration of the city.

As forecasted from time to time, the mayor appointed Councilman A. W. Farlinger, of the fourth ward, chairman of the finance committee. Councilman Farlinger was a member of last year's committee and is well equipped for the place.

Johnson Heads Police.

On the police committee the mayor placed Edwin F. Johnson, councilman from the sixth, and on the streets committee he named Councilman J. N. Renfroe, of the first. Both appointees are new men who are entering upon their first terms.

Alderman C. H. Kelley, of the second, who served as chairman of the street committee last year, was moved up to the chairmanship of the sewer committee.

Councilman Ed. H. Inman, of the eighth, got the chairmanship of the tax committee, and Councilman Charles Whiteford Smith, who was chairman of that committee last year, was made chairman of the claims and litigation committee to succeed Councilman Jesse Wood. Councilman Wood was one of the old members who did not fare well in the matter of committee appointments. He made an enviable record as chairman of the claims committee last year.

Alderman James W. Maddox and Councilman Jesse B. Lee, of the fifth ward, and Councilman Sam Freeman, of the tenth, were the men who plucked some of the best committee plums.

tion as an act of discourtesy. He said that he offered his motion immediately after Alderman Ragsdale had been elected mayor pro tem., and that his only motive was to install him in his position and show him a courtesy by recognizing his election.

Mayor Woodward promptly turned over the gavel to Mayor Pro Tem. Ragsdale, who made a brief speech and then returned the gavel to the mayor.

Councilman George Freeman, of the third, and Alderman J. Lee Barnes, of the ninth, received flowers from their friends.

Drastic Reforms.

Drastic reforms for the regulation of near beer saloons, locker clubs and rathskellers, urged by Mayor James G. Woodward in his inaugural message, created a furore at the meeting of the new council last night.

Aside from recommending that women not be served with liquor in clubs unless accompanied by some male relative of her immediate family, the mayor suggests that rathskellers be removed from basements and exposed to public view.

He urges that the near beer license be made $500 or $1,000, explaining that there are 180 saloons in Atlanta, and that the high license will have the effect of running the divekeepers out of business and placing the business in the hands of men who will operate strictly in conformity with the law.

Mayor Woodward points to the finances of the city at the close of the year, explaining in his message that all debts have been paid and that the city began the new year with a surplus of cash amounting to $1,403.10, and with a fund of $35,698 to pay outstanding warrants.

He deplores the recent newspaper agitation on the cotton situation, and suggests that the Atlanta spirit be revived. He points to the fact that the city recently turned from the city treasury more than $141,000 to build sewers and put men to work, and he strongly urges corporations and firms not to cut down their working forces in times of distress.

He asks that the finance committee appropriate $75,000 to represent the city's share of the fund of $225,000, which will be raised to establish a fair at Lakewood.

Does Not Oppose Bonds.

Mayor Woodward makes it plain in his message that he does not oppose the issuance of bonds for the improvement of the schools, waterworks, sewer extension, parks or other purposes, but explains that he wants the city to issue only a reasonable amount. He goes into the details of the projected bond issue of $3,000,000 in a sane and conservative manner, and makes a detailed statement showing the amount of money the city will be required to set aside each year to keep up the interest and sinking fund of $3,000,000.

He urges equalization of salaries, particularly with reference to the salaries paid engineers in the construction department. He recommends a drastic cut in the salary of the superintendent of Oakland cemetery. He also urges council to exercise care in the creation of pensions, and recommends improving the tracks crossing the Whitehall viaduct.

He criticises the ordinance which authorizes the heads of departments to nominate their subordinates, declaring that that ordinance has been the cause of friction between boards and heads of departments.

He urges charter reforms or the establishment of a new system of government.

Following is a concise epitome of the mayor's message:

The Mayor's Message.

In beginning his message Mayor Woodward called attention to the fact that whereas the city had outstanding indebtedness amounting to nearly $700,000 when he assumed office, this had been reduced to the $13,000 which the city now owed on the property bought for stockade purposes. Mayor Woodward expresses pleasure over the fact that the incoming council will be largely friendly toward him, and pledges himself to "arrange the business of the city so as to place together those who desire to work for the best interests of the city."

Purchasing Department.

It is declared that the work of the purchasing department has met during the past year with great success, thousands of dollars being saved to the city. The material that was purchased for the construction department alone was secured at figures 15 per cent lower than in previous years. Large decreases were made in all other departments, the total sum saved to the city being set at $74,027.09.

The mayor again urged the establishment of a large warehouse, saying that it would mean the saving of $15,000 a year.

Bond Sinking Fund.

The bond sinking fund commission is declared to be upon a firm business foundation.

In referring to the question of the proposed issue of bonds for various purposes, the report says:

Bonds.

For some time past the question of a bond issue has been considerably discussed through the press and the general council. Looking to that end, a committee of the general council, composed of the chairmen of the committees of most importance, was appointed to investigate the same and report to the general council the necessities of their separate departments.

Various amounts have been suggested: $3,000,000, $3,500,000 and $4,000,000, but finally the whole matter was referred to the general council of 1915, which I think was a very appropriate action, as I did not believe the general council of 1914 had a right to call for and force an election that was to be held under an entirely different administration and general council in the year 1915. Now I am free to admit that there has been considerable criticism upon the expenditure of the last bond issue, and I am free to admit that I believe some of it was very just criticism. I believe that some of the school houses that were built cost entirely too much money. I believe their location was bad and did not serve the public properly. I am not one of that number which believe that Atlanta and our school system has retrograded or buildings become a lot of fire traps as to demand the severe criticisms that have been heaped upon them. Our public schools system has proven quite an asset in the past, for a great many people have moved to this city for the sole purpose of educating their children. With such reports going out to the world as we have seen in the last few weeks it could hardly be expected that outsiders would form a good opinion of Atlanta and her school system. I do not believe that the people in charge of that department should appear in the public prints with their grievances. They readily know that the public revenues are limited and that the general council in past years has always been generous with our school system, and I cannot but believe otherwise than that they will follow the same course in the future. I would not be understood as entirely opposing bonds, but I do insist on getting the city's business on a firm, business-like foundation before we take on further obligations.

Position on Bonds.

I am not willing that the people shall go blindly into a bond election just for the sake of having money to spend. I will insist that they know of the burdens that they will have to take on if a bond issue is floated. For comparative purposes let us say that the bond issue will be $4,000,000. Now the people must know what it will cost them on increase in the tax rate or increased assessments to take care of the bond issue. In the first place, it will cost $180,000 per year for interest charges. It will cost $120,000 per year for sinking fund purposes, making a total in that line of $300,000. Now for each school house that is built it will entail an expenditure in upkeep, for teachers, etc., of not less than $15,000 per year. The same may be said of each fire engine house that is built and practically the same for any additional police station. In other words, we cannot invest one dollar without making some appropriation for the maintenance of that improvement. I do not think that I am overestimating when I say that it will take $300,000 per year additional to the sinking fund and interest for the maintenance of the $4,000,000 invested. Therefore it will be seen that it will cost the people of Atlanta in increased taxes or increased assessments the sum of practically $600,000 per year to pay the expenses of an issue of $4,000,000. The present receipts of the city, above fixed expenses, is not in excess of $200,000 or $250,000 per year, and it will be absolutely necessary to have that amount of money each year to take care of the increase in the growth of the different departments. It will be seen, therefore, that the $600,000 that I allude to has got to be in addition to all expenses of the taxpayers at the present time. In other words, it has got to be in addition to their present tax payment. Now, if the people of this city are willing to submit to that increased levy of tax, which is imperative if that amount of bonds were floated, would it not be better to take that increased tax and expend it judiciously each year and do away with the bond issue entirely? During the campaign of the last bond issue the people were told that if they did not vote for bonds their taxes would be increased and that if they did vote for bonds their taxes would not be increased. I took the position at that time that if the people voted for bonds that their taxes would be increased, just the reverse of what was stated in the campaign. The people are aware of the results that followed. Now, I am just as emphatic that if there is a bond issue of the amount suggested that there will have to be an increased revenue collected in order to meet that expenditure. I do not want to be understood as opposing bonds in a reasonable amount, but I am determined that the people shall know what they are doing when they vote for bonds or against bonds. In other words, I believe in taking the people absolutely into your confidence and let them know the results of what they are doing.

Mayor Woodward again urges the reorganization of departments upon a basis that will result in the reduction of salaries. Along this line the report says, in part:

I desire to call the finance committee's and the general council's special attention to this matter in the interest of the tax payers who should have some rights that their paid employees should respect. I believe in good salaries and I believe in having a sufficient number of people employed to properly transact the city's business, but I do not believe that it is right for us to pay salaries not commensurate with services rendered.

Charter.

The matter of a new and up-to-date charter for the city of Atlanta is a question of too vital importance to go unattended. The present charter is one that was made years ago and has been amended and changed and patched until no one can recognize it. It is out of date and fails to place responsibility. The people are very desirous of a revision or new charter, that they will know upon whom to place delinquency. This matter was a live issue in my first campaign for mayor in 1912, and in 1913 a committee of twenty-five was appointed and gave diligent work to the getting together of a new charter. After the committee had made its final report, a large mass meeting was held at the Auditorium, and indorsed the charter gotten up by that committee unanimously. Later to put the matter more firmly before the general council, a postal card vote was taken of the registered voters of the city and about 5,600 of those votes were cast with a request to council that all charters be referred to them that they might pass upon them. Regardless of all this, the general council of 1913 threw the charter of the committee of twenty-five into the waste basket and passed up a make-shift of their own which, when placed before the people, was defeated. I suggest to the general council that the people be given a fair, impartial chance to pass upon whatever kind of charter they desire, and in order that this question may be treated frankly and fairly, I suggest that two committees be appointed. One, representing people who believe in the commission form of government and another composed of a like number of citizens who believe entirely in representative form of government. Two committees thus composed would naturally get together a first-class charter upon the lines of their belief and when these two charters are ready, let them be presented to the legislature next summer for the purpose of getting authority from that body to submit them to the people and let the people of Atlanta select their choice. A movement of this kind is absolutely fair to all classes of our people, both commission and representative, and with two charters presented to them in that manner, selected by people entirely in sympathy with each respective charter, it is evident that whichever one should receive a majority vote of the people of this city, that Atlanta would have the best charter that could be gotten up on that special line. I therefore, recommend that such committees be appointed. It is true that the people under the law of initiative can take the matter in their own hands, and I presume that if they were refused the privilege, that they would take such course, but I believe that the general council does not desire that the people of this city should be forced to take such drastic actions upon a matter that so vitally affects the city of Atlanta.

Southeastern Fair.

The question of establishing a permanent fair grounds at Lakewood, together with beautifying that large tract of land for park purposes, has been before your honorable body on several occasions, and I know of no one thing that the city of Atlanta can do that will tend to upbuild and attract attention than the erection and installation of a permanent fair ground at Lakewood. This matter has been pretty thoroughly gone into during the past year by a committee composed of members of the general council, the chamber of commerce and the county commissioners, and it was agreed that the city, through its general council should contribute $75,000; the county commissioners have agreed to contribute in money a like sum, and the chamber of commerce has pledged the same amount to be raised by popular subscription among the business people of our city. With this fund, the movement of establishing the Southeastern Fair association permanently at Lakewood will be a foregone conclusion. With all the depression upon our section of the country caused by the European war and no demand for the staple product of cotton, I know of no movement that will tend to improve business conditions than the holding of a fair next fall. Besides, the benefits to be derived from the fair, the expenditure of that amount of money, commencing at as early a date as possible, will tend to liven up building conditions, thereby giving employment to many hundreds of our worthy people who are out of employment and needing same very badly.

The general council of 1914 committed itself unanimously by the passage of a resolution requesting the council of 1915 to appropriate its pro rata of $75,000 for the carrying out of this most valuable acquisition to Atlanta's upgrowth. I hope that the general council of 1915 will act unanimously in the approval of the request of the general council of 1914, so that this work may be started at once.

Pensions.

In his message Mayor Woodward seriously questions the wisdom of establishing a regular pension list for any degree of service. He declares no disinclination to extend relief where it is deserved, but thinks that the matter should be gone into in a business-like manner by council before any decision is reached.

Clubs, Rathskellers and Saloons.

In discussing the prohibition question, Mr. Woodward says:

While my position upon the prohibition question is well known, still I am firmly convinced that if the liquor and beer business was left exposed to the public like we had conditions in Atlanta before the present prohibition law was passed, that it would be infinitely better than the way it is at the present time by having the same hidden from public view. Besides, the city would be receiving a much larger revenue from it and have the problem under much better control. The prohibition law is here, and whether we like it or not, we should give it due and proper consideration. I do not want to be understood as making any special fight upon clubs and beer saloons, but I do want to be understood as being desirous of seeing them run upon a clean and proper basis. I am absolutely opposed to dives of any description, and I believe that it is the duty of the general council, and especially of the police committee, to take the matter of clubs, rathskellers and beer saloons under their most careful consideration. I believe that a great many young women of this city visit clubs and partake of drinks that should not be allowed therein. In fact, I do not believe that any woman should be allowed to go into any club and be served with drinks unless she is accompanied by some immediate member of her family. I believe that we owe this debt to the mothers and fathers of this city. I am further convinced that no rathskellers should be allowed to exist in basements, unexposed from public view and allowed to serve or dispense beer and other drinks. My information is that anyone can telephone the hotel or such place where rathskellers are located and have been and other drinks put aside for them until any hour of the night that they desire to call. It has come to my information that such occurrences as this is common in the midnight hours and after. I do not believe that a rathskeller should be allowed to serve any kind of drinks under such conditions as they are located in this city. I feel satisfied that the beer saloons of this city would be in much better hands and be conducted in a more reputable way if there were not more than one hundred instead of one hundred and eighty. I believe it would be advantageous to the beer interest and certainly to the standing of business and the character of men engaged therein if the police committee would more closely inquire into the character of the people running beer saloons, and if the general council would curtail the number of beer saloons to not more than one hundred and increase the license to $500 per year, or possibly $1,000 per year, by such increase in license the revenue from that source would not be decreased. I believe that the character of the beer business would be much increased in standard if the pool and billiard tables were removed therefrom. I do not believe that it is the proper thing to have a pool table and beer saloon in the same room. I would, therefore, suggest that the police committee take this matter up and classify those two different businesses and separate them. I am satisfied that it would both elevate the beer saloon and poolroom business and thereby rid the city of many dives.

Construction Department.

The mayor reviews the work of the construction department for the year, giving figures showing the number of miles of work done and the cost. The total amount of the different kinds of work done by this department amounts to $572,695.52—this in addition to considerable work on bridges and the public works property.

Mayor Woodward suggests that the recent fire in the buildings on the corner of Edgewood avenue and Pryor street presents a good opportunity for the cutting off of that corner—a project to which the city was pledged some years ago.

It is also suggested that the tracks on the Whitehall street viaduct—which are owned by the city—be relaid.

In commenting upon the frequent tearing up of streets, Mayor Woodward says:

There is a matter that I called the special attention of the general council to in my last annual message, and that is the fact of too many streets being torn up at the same time and remaining in that condition for an undue length of time. Take the matter of South Forsyth street for instance. That street has been torn up nearly ten months to the great disadvantage, if not personal damage, to the people doing business and residing along that thoroughfare. Such conditions as this are inexcusable, and let me insist on the street committee and the general council in future, not to allow any street to be torn up until all parties interested in the improvement (city and county), are in position to go upon the work immediately and remain there until it is completed.

Nominations of Department Heads.

Mayor Woodward declares that the ordinance requiring nominations by department heads has resulted in much friction already and will result in still more in future. He thinks it a question as to whether the law is not illegal, as it conflicts with the legislative provisions of the duties of the board of police commissioners and the board of education. He thinks that council will do well to repeal the law to a certain extent.

Crematory.

In his message, Mayor Woodward goes exhaustively into the troubles incident to the construction of the crematory. He cites the fact that his position has been upheld by the supreme court of Georgia, and that the operation of the plant has proved the correctness of his claims. He declares that the company has never showed a disposition to give the city of Atlanta a fair deal, especially with regard to tests. He goes into detail in regard to the various tests attempted, and denies the statements of the Destructor company and its attorneys that the city authorities have hampered them in the operations of the plant. He declares that all the city has to show for the $125,000 already paid on the contract is a bond for its faithful performance.

The report shows that when the Destructor company made certain demands in connection with the burning of dead animals, the city made other arrangements for the disposal of the carcasses.

In concluding this section of his report, Mayor Woodward says:

Atlanta is not the only city that is suffering by the work of this company, which it seems is in the habit of guaranteeing and promising anything to get a contract with the expectation of getting out upon terms to suit themselves. San Francisco, Cal., entered into a contract with this same company in 1910 to build a plant for that city, and while it is a plant about half the size of Atlanta's, they have had trouble with it continually, having to shut it down and make changes trying to carry out the provisions of their agreement until this year, more than three years after the signing of the contract, they had to shut down the plant entirely for some months with the attempt to get it in order. After the plant was started running again the city of San Francisco demanded a thirty-day test and it was demonstrated after the test that out of seven distinct points of test, the company fell down on four. The city engineer refused to consider the matter further and recommended to the board of public works of San Francisco that the contract be annulled and that the Destructor company be required to pay back into the treasury of the city $108,000 already paid upon the contract and to remove the plant off the city's grounds. This is another case of where they were trying to settle their business through the courts, instead of complying with their contract and specifications.

Atlanta has never demanded only an honest compliance with the contract, as she is paying a large amount of money and is certainly entitled to results, and so long as I remain in office, that contract will be complied with or there will never be another dollar expended in that direction.

Commenting on the police department, Mayor Woodward says that the business of the board of commissioners has been transacted during the year in a most harmonious manner, and says that the only element of friction in the department was caused by outside interference. He says that conditions in Atlanta as regards crime is far from what the city would like to have it, and suggests that drugs which have been substituted for whisky is, in a large degree, responsible for most of the crime.

As to the administration of the police force, Mayor Woodward says:

"I am fearful that the chief's manner of handling his men does not command that degree of harmony that should prevail, and under the circumstances as that it is almost impossible to get the best results from the department at large."

He suggests that with a sufficient number of men added to the force, and, added to the plain clothes squad, a good watch can be made up to protect the city during the morning hours. The mayor points out that there is too much petty crime in the city, and declares that someone should be held responsible for it.

"If we are not getting good results from the police department, then some action should be taken by which the city could be better protected," he says.

Mayor Woodward reviews the charges which were preferred against Fire Chief Cummings during the early part of last year, and criticises what he alleged to have been loose methods employed in the fire department in the matter of purchasing supplies. He also deals with the contract between the city and the Okemite company for the erection and installation of a fire alarm system to cost $106,000 and which was subsequently compromised through his efforts for $87,500 on a cash basis.

He calls attention to the installation of new fire companies in unprotected sections of the city, and recommends that the station on Marietta street in the fifth ward be equipped immediately to afford the protection to which the people in that section are entitled.

The mayor recommends that council proceed as rapidly as possible with the motorization of the fire department, making each fire engine a motor-driven piece of apparatus.

The mayor commends General Man-

Two Children Now Dead, Mother Expected to Die, Result of Slow Poison

New York, January 4.—The slow poison administered six days ago by Mrs. Ida Rogers to her two babies and herself resulted today in the death of the older child, John, aged 2. Lorida, 8 months old, died last Wednesday. The mother's death was expected.

Lorlys Elton Rogers, the lawyer who was known as her husband to the neighborhood in the Bronx where they lived, maintained his vigil at the woman's bedside. He had no comment to make, nor did Mrs. Annie Roquemore Rogers, who divorced Rogers in 1909; nor Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers, who married Rogers in 1909 and lived with him till last October on Riverside drive. Mrs. Annie Rogers had been a frequent caller at the hospital since Mrs. Ida Rogers was taken there, but she has declined to listen to questions concerning Rogers' life.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take Anti-kamnia Tablets, and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on, take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack will be warded off. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.

ITALIAN FIRM TO BUY BIG AMOUNT OF COTTON

Representative of Big Concern Opens Headquarters at the Ansley.

That cotton-burdened Georgia is to soon be relieved of an enormous amount of the fleecy staple by purchases of a big Italian firm, is stated by Aram Kaisserlian, of Milan, Italy, who has set up headquarters in the Ansley hotel for the purpose of re-opening export trade to Italy.

Kaisserlian represents the firm of Foster & Ostall, with offices in Milan, Genoa and Zollikon, Switzerland. The European war so severely clogged business channels between Italy and America, that the purpose of his visit to this country is to inaugurate a better means of communication between the headquarters of his concern and American cotton dealers.

From his quarters at the Ansley he will conduct this business throughout the cotton belt. His firm, he states, intends to buy hundreds of thousands of bales this year, to furnish cotton for Switzerland, Austria and Italy.

Freight Rates Reasonable.

Washington, January 4.—Freight rates on liquid tanning extract in tank cars from Knoxville, Tenn., and other similarly located points to destinations in other states were held today by the interstate commerce commission to be reasonable. The rating of the extract as fifth class freight was not found to be discriminatory.

MILT SAUL TO EDIT "THE GAS RECORD;" MOVES TO CHICAGO

Milt Saul, a well-known newspaper man of Atlanta, will leave at once for Chicago, where he will assume the editorship of The Gas Record. This is an influential trade journal, national in its scope. It was established by Chicago interests at the Atlanta convention of the National Commercial Gas association, two years ago, and since that time has developed rapidly in its editorial and business departments.

Mr. Saul goes to his new position with a wide experience in newspaper work. For the last four years he has been manager of publicity and advertising for the Atlanta Gas Light company.

The Southern Golf Magazine, of which Mr. Saul was editor, has been merged with Golfers' Magazine, edited by Charles ("Chick") Evans and also published in Chicago. The December issue of The Southern Golfers' Magazine announced that hereafter its subscribers would receive the Golfers' Magazine each month under the arrangements by which The Southern Golf Magazine was merged with it.

CORN CLUB BOYS ARE GUESTS OF A., B. & A.

Eighteen Boys and Six Girls Spend Night at the Piedmont.

Eighteen corn club boys and six canning club girls spent last night at the Piedmont hotel on their way to Athens, where they go for ten days at the agricultural school. The boys and girls won scholarships awarded last year at the Georgia show by the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad to those along the A., B. & A., who raised the most corn to the acre or made best records in the canning clubs.

The party was headed by Will Tucker, of Moultrie, agricultural agent for the A., B. & A., and accompanied by Demonstration Agents T. B. Wiley, of Pierce county; G. B. Eunice, of Coffee county and P. H. Ward, of Grady county.

A special car was provided for the boys and girls, who were picked up along the road from Brunswick to Atlanta. Not one of them, it was stated, had ever seen a street car or been in a town of size, and they were open-eyed with joyful wonder when they found themselves among the bright lights and skyscrapers of Atlanta.

The party will leave this morning for Athens, returning in ten days to spend two days in this city sightseeing and theatergoing as guests of the A., B. & A.

A CLEARAWAY OF SUITS

Done After the Fashion of all Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. Clearaways

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company's clearaways have always deserved their name.

The prices we put upon things at these times are so obviously low that they accomplish their purpose.

Today it is suits—a small lot, it is true—and for that reason a finer opportunity than it would be were there more suits for you to choose from.

Here go eighty-one suits, new, good-looking suits styled to the moment and so priced that women will do well to hurry in this morning, lest they be too late.

At $9.75 Thirteen Suits, Coats medium long and long, mostly serges.

At $11.75 Twenty-seven Suits, short Coats, serges and cloths in colors and black, flare Skirts.

At $13.75 Thirty-five Suits, twenty-five of which have short Coats and flare Skirts, ten have long Coats.

At $19.50 Just six Covert Cloth Suits, short Coats, flare Skirts.

It is only fair to advise that at the prices above the suits represent perhaps the best savings the season will bring.

Now Is the Time to Invest in Dependable Furs

Not one piece that we own but has its price reduced. The savings average very near a half—sometimes not quite a half, sometimes more than a half.

Muffs, Scarfs, Sets, and the same warranty of worth goes with them now as when prices were normal.

Indeed, It Is Proving to Be the

Ideal Sale of Undermuslins

We take your viewpoint when we say this is the Ideal January Sale of Undermuslins. We knew we had bought these thousands of garments to best advantage; we knew that we had secured

Greater Varieties Neater Workmanship More Attractive Styles Finer Materials Daintier Trimmings Lower Prices

We knew that the elements of the sale pointed to a bigger, better sale than we had ever attempted.

And now, if we are to judge by the crowds that are filling the muslin underwear section at this writing, the women of Atlanta know pretty well that this is The Ideal Sale from their viewpoint.

The garments are lovely, and at lower prices than ever! Regardless of what the crowds bought yesterday, we have stacked the tables high again this morning, and begin anew with the same wonderful values that we had yesterday.

Mrs. Hewitt's Spend-the-Day Party.

Mrs. J. M. Hewitt gave a delightful spend-the-day party at her home on Grant street on December 30, her guests being the members of the New Era Study club. The house was beautifully decorated with holiday garlands of red and green, and the centerpiece on the dining table was a little Christmas tree on a mirror plateau, with a Santa Claus standing beneath. A delicious dinner was served by the daughter of the home, Miss Pearl Dempsey, assisted by Misses Gladys Thrower and Edith Couch. After dinner the guests were informed that Santa had left a tree for them and they proceeded to enjoy its fruits. Every lady received a trifle, a bit of jewelry, and then each club member gave a Christmas present to the member whose name she had drawn some weeks before. The gifts were all dainty pieces of hand work and were greatly appreciated by the recipients. Mrs. J. B. Allen then presented the club president, Mrs. Brasswell, with a set of white and gold tea cups as a Christmas remembrance from the club. Dr. Florence T. Truax gave Mrs. J. M. Hewitt a cut glass vase which she assured the delighted hostess was full to overflowing with the affection of the guests on this annual club dinner. The entire club membership was present on this happy occasion: Mesdames J. B. Allen, S. B. Bisaner, Albert Brasswell, J. B. Crossland, J. M. Hewitt, P. H. Keeney, S. C. Orr, R. J. Prichett, A. J. Young and Dr. Florence T. Truax. The following invited guests were also present: Mrs. E. C. Calloway, James Calloway and Mrs. N. J. Horne, of Marietta, Ga.

The guests will be Mrs. B. Neville, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. K. Morrison and Mrs. W. A. McWhorter.

Mr. William McWhorter gave a dance last Thursday evening in honor of Miss Doerr, inviting forty of the young college set. The whole lower floor was thrown into one large room for dancing. The decorations were Christmas red and green wreaths, and branches of mistletoe being arranged effectively. Punch was served from the side porch, which was turned into a beautiful Japanese garden. A salad course was served at 12 o'clock.

O'Farrell-Caldwell.

A pretty home wedding of Saturday evening was that of Miss Catherine Meek O'Farrell to Mr. Robert Dearyer Caldwell at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nolan O'Farrell, in Inman Park. Rev. S. W. Reid, of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony under a circle of white wedding bells and smilax. Palms, smilax, wedding bells, pink carnations, white roses and pink candles were used effectively in decorating the parlors. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments. Punch was served during the evening by Misses Ruby England, Ella Sevelovitz and Emma Glasscock.

At 8:30 o'clock an aisle of white satin ribbon and pink tulle was made by the little brothers and sisters of the bride—George, Richard, Jean and Elizabeth O'Farrell, and Mary and Shelly Ivey. The little girls were dressed in white and wore pink ribbon. As Miss Lucile McNair played Mendelssohn's wedding march the maid of honor, Miss Ruth O'Farrell, sister of the bride, preceded the bride to the altar. Mr. Caldwell, attended by Mr. Ernest Bell as best man, joined them, where the simple ring ceremony was performed, after which the bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends. During the ceremony Miss McNair played the barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffman."

The bride's gown was of white chiffon over satin trimmed in pearls and Chantilly lace. She wore a Dutch cap of lace and pearls and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore blue with an overblouse of gold and white chiffon and princess lace and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

Mrs. O'Farrell was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Charles Stillwell Robison and Mrs. Martha Kirkpatrick. Among the out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Caldwell, Misses Mary O'Farrell, Kate and Ella Cody and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. O'Farrell, all of South Carolina.

RECIPE FOR BALD HEADS

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has New Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and his ready wit surprised his friends by appearing with a new growth of hair. Many of his friends did not know him, and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the growth of my hair to the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of Glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."

SUFFRAGISTS FAVOR A NEW CITY CHARTER

Will Work for Women on the Various Boards of the City.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, held on Monday afternoon at the Hotel Ansley, the association mapped out its work for the coming year and decided to work for women on the school, park, hospital and library boards of the city.

The Atlanta Equal Suffrage association also placed itself on record as being in favor of a new city charter, as the present charter fails to recognize the right of women to any share in the city's municipal affairs.

The announcement of these promotions will be read with interest by the friends of these three officials, whose good work has moved them up. They are all well known and highly esteemed in Atlanta.

Valdosta, Ga., January 4.—(Special.) The demand for syrup barrels throughout this section this season is the largest ever known, and indicates that an enormous yield of syrup has been made. The barrel factory in this city has shipped about 9,000 barrels this season, against a little more than 2,000 last season.

The ordinance provided for $25 a month compensation.

The committee gave no reason for adversing the report.

AT THE THEATERS

"Polly of the Circus."

When irresistible Polly stood in the dim moonlight of the deserted circus grounds in the last tableau of "Polly of the Circus," at the Atlanta last night, and recited a passage from Ruth to Parson John Douglas, there were literally tears in the voice of Elsie St. Leon.

There had been tears before. But these tears were more contagious. They spread through the audience, and there was many a moist eye as the curtain fell and hands groped for their hats and coats. The charming Miss St. Leon fell into characteristic tears many times during her portrayal of the exquisitely impulsive Polly, and once, when she was trying to smother an outburst behind the wings, she broke into them anew in appreciation of a handsome basket of geraniums that had been sent over the footlights.

It is unquestionably due to the work of this perennially young lady that "Polly of the Circus" has endeared itself into the hearts of theatergoers to such an extent that they witness it season after season. There were many in last night's audience that had seen it as many as three times, but enjoyed it anew. It would be hard to imagine a "Polly" without the personality of Miss St. Leon.

Last night's performance progressed smoothly. Miss St. Leon is supported by a good cast. And the show is well staged. One gets a genuine whiff of the sawdust world in the circus scenes and tableaux. It is easy to imagine from the final tableau the tugging at the heart strings of the born-and-bred circus performer as she stands upon the drab, empty grounds where the tents once stood, and, leaving the life, watches in silence the long train of circus wagons as they wend over the distant hills.

Particularly worthy of mention in the cast was Scott Moore, as Rev. John Douglas, and William Mowry as Deacon Elverson, together with C. Gourad as Big Jim, the boss canvasman.

There will be four more performances, tonight and tomorrow, with matinees both days.

BRITT CRAIG.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

The bill at the Forsyth this week furnishes variety enough to satisfy the most exacting, and is one of the most enjoyable bills as a whole ever staged at the popular playhouse.

Ethel Kirk and Billy Fogarty, in singing and dialogue, are the hit of the bill. This Fogarty person "gets over" his "stuff" in a way strictly his own—to be seen to be appreciated. Miss Kirk presents SOME dresses—what there are of them. "'Tis a poor world for a blind man."

The Trans-Atlantic Trio presents a musical act of real merit. Miss Keyes has a beautiful soprano and Harry Clark and Miss Clark in banjo accompaniments, especially in the plantation scene, work in perfect accord with her voice. Mr. Clark's banjo playing of classics was great, a violin selection of Mendelssohn's especially bringing a storm of applause, as did the Sextette from Lucia, in which the six voices were played on the two banjos.

Arthur Prince, reputed to be the highest salaried man in vaudeville, is a ventriloquist of merit, but some of his English jokes were lost on the audience Monday.

LeRoy, Lytton & Co., in "Neighbors," present an enjoyable skit. Harry Jolson's yodling earned him many friends. Eddie Howard opened the bill with some clever tumbling. He would make his act go better if he pantomimed entirely, eliminating the lip sounds.

Paul Gordon and Ame Rica close the bill with a little singing, a little dancing and some splendid bicycle riding. This is one closing act that held the audience to the last. It is a deserved compliment to a hard working pair with a dandy act.

"Bought and Paid For."

(At the Atlanta.)

The seat sale for "Bought and Paid For," one of the most pronounced successes of the past two seasons, opens at the Atlanta this morning. The play will be here Friday and Saturday, with daily matinees. The management is again sending here this dramatic gem of material life which George Broadhurst claims to be the greatest of all his successful plays. The piece appeals with equal force to both sexes. There are, too, many laughs in "Bought and Paid For," as well as intense moments, but when the tense moments come, they find you gripping the arm of your chair and living the whole thing through with the people on the stage. Through it all, there is a strong human touch which Mr. Broadhurst achieved in building his play, and brought out by the management in the selection of a perfect cast.

FAIRBURN AND ATLANTA.

Stockholders of Electric Road Hold Annual Meeting.

Fairburn, Ga., January 4.—(Special.) At the annual stockholders' meeting, held at the courthouse today, the special report of the committee of directors appointed to ascertain the status and condition of the Fairburn and Atlanta Railroad and Electric company disclosed the fact that the company, since beginning operation about July 1, 1911, has made a profit of a little over 12 per cent per annum; that this profit, except 8 per cent, has been paid to stockholders in two semi-annual installments, has been invested in improved equipment, increasing the assets of the company.

A resolution was passed requesting the directors to pay a 4 per cent dividend to the stockholders.

The directorate of the company was unanimously re-elected. After the stockholders' meeting, the directors met and re-elected W. T. Roberts, president; Paul Speir, secretary, and J. H. Longino, treasurer. J. F. Golightly was re-elected attorney for the company.

DIRECTORY PUBLISHED WITHOUT AUTHORITY

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Atlanta Registered Nurses' club a resolution was adopted disclaiming any connection whatever with a recent directory published, supposedly under the auspices of the club. The club in no way shares in the profits of the publication.

Americus Dwelling Burns.

Americus, Ga., January 4.—(Special.) The dwelling of Deputy Sheriff Lucius at Americus was entirely destroyed by fire last night, with well-nigh all contents. The dwelling was occupied by J. I. Jay and family. The loss of $3,000 was partly covered by insurance. Cause or the fire, accidental.

THE TIDE TURNS.

Following the outbreak of the European war, the weekly bank clearings of Georgia's four leading cities—Atlanta, Augusta, Macon and Savannah—have shown a uniform decrease ranging from 26 to 30 per cent from those of the same week in the year preceding. The slump was not confined to the south, the whole country being affected.

The first week of the New Year presents a striking contrast. It is a definite, black and white, statistical harbinger of the fulfillment of The Constitution's prophecy of better times ahead.

Atlanta shows a decrease over the same week of last year of only a trifle over 4 per cent, that being to all intents and purposes normal. Augusta shows a decrease of only 12 per cent, a radical improvement. Savannah makes the phenomenal showing of a decrease of only 1.6 per cent. Macon's showing also is favorable.

The remainder of the country and the remainder of the cotton belt indicate the same trend. The figures, in the preponderating number of cities, have been transferred from the decrease to the increase side of the ledger, or the decreases have been so reduced as to make them negligible.

The meaning of these figures is that the tide has turned!

That applies not only to the south, but to the entire country. Readjustment is getting in its work, men are recovering their heads and business is going about its accustomed way.

In the south it means that cotton is moving, and that means business and money are moving.

Despite the shock of a world war and the croak of the pessimist, the south and the country are entering 1915 with the promise of a prosperous year, and with trade conditions rapidly adjusting themselves to normal.

GAMBLING AND TRADING.

Samuel Untermyer, who was special attorney for the congressional "money trust" probe, furnishes a useful definition for the stock and commodity exchanges of this country. Expressed roughly, it runs about as follows: "A place for legitimate trading, but not inside maneuvering." Untermyer declared the latter evil had given the demagogue material with which to attack the exchanges, but added that the latter had their functions, so long as they did not stack the cards against the outsider.

In this connection, The Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph calls our attention to another lesson from the European war:

> Something has been learned by the public of the true functions of stock exchanges during the period of suspension. They are perceived by vastly more people than formerly to be real utilities which perform functions of the highest importance to the business world. Without them there is no accurate measure of security values, and the person who may be under compulsion of circumstances to turn property of this sort into cash is under the necessity of doing business in the dark or in a very dim light instead of in the strong illumination provided by the dynamics of an open market, where the laws of supply and demand operate with sufficient friction to maintain a steady light of high-candle power on changing quotations. There has been much unjust criticism of stock exchanges. Well-meaning critics of them have learned something from experience, doubtless, which will tend to abate their criticism. If they have, the critics of the other sort and the demagogues are rendered powerless for harm.

Undoubtedly, the exchanges needed the attention they have received. They were in a measure in the same boat with the railroads, and had squeezed the fortunes of thousands of innocent people.

It is asking too much, perhaps, of human nature and its frailties to say that these buccaneering adventures on the big exchanges are ended for all time. But the exchanges, along with the railroads, have been taught a sharp lesson in good behavior. And the people also have learned their lesson as to the legitimate functions of exchanges from the European war.

A MASTER BUILDER.

In his attitude toward the Chicago-Jacksonville highway, projected by the Hoosier club, of Indianapolis, as well as in the extensive work of development he has already done for Chattanooga and its surroundings, C. E. James, of that city, displays all the qualities of the master builder. Mr. James is the guiding spirit of the corporation that built the beautiful Signal Mountain Inn, on the crest of Walden's Ridge, 2,000 feet above sea level, and connected it with Chattanooga with a magnificent boulevard at a cost of from $75,000 to $100,000. This highway is a marvel of engineering construction, and it bridges, between Signal Mountain and Chattanooga, the most difficult link in the projected south-to-west highway.

Mr. James, with typically large vision, now insists that the west and south highway ought to be built to a true air-line, as nearly as possible. By his plan the highway would shoot straight down from Louisville as the crow flies to Chattanooga. Nashville would be eliminated, with a saving of nearly a hundred miles. If this plan is followed Mr. James offers, in behalf of the interests he represents, to contribute $50,000 and the services of surveyors for the completion of the road stretching along Walden's Ridge and to Crossville, Tenn. The link thus taken care of would approximate thirty-five to forty-five miles of difficult mountain construction.

If the James plan is adopted the proposed west-to-south highway becomes at once almost a certainty. The Hoosier club, of Indianapolis, would set at work co-ordinating influences between counties and states that would soon link up the road from Crossville, Tenn., the point to which the James extension virtually reaches, and thence on to Louisville. The road from Louisville to Chicago would, similarly, be a matter merely of detailed co-operation. The highway between Atlanta and Chattanooga practically takes care of itself, as does that from Atlanta to the southern terminus at Jacksonville.

Whether or not the James plan is adopted, it is refreshing to encounter a man of his caliber, public spirit and daring. He is a master-builder, in the truest sense. Men of his type must be depended upon for the development of the south to its full possibilities.

A GRADUAL AGREEMENT.

A settlement of the moot question of what constitutes contraband has already begun, with the announcement by the British embassy that naval stores seized before these articles were declared contraband will be paid for. The same principle is applied to other commodities, and there is a general disposition in the British note to relax the severity of the ban.

These concessions cannot, however, be considered as more than preliminary, and as indicating England's disposition to do what is proper.

The slight display of "ginger" in the American note of protest did no harm. On the other hand, it helped to bring about what will undoubtedly be a satisfactory adjustment of the trouble.

THE HIGH COST OF LAW.

The Chicago municipal court, under the direction of Chief Justice Harry Olson, is about to inaugurate a judicial reform that may have far-reaching consequences. In the latter part of this month there will be established a branch of the court which will be entirely innocent of lawyers. Complainant and defendant will present their own cases. Technicalities will be eliminated and justice facilitated. At first cases involving a maximum of $50 only will be considered. As the experiment progresses the scope of the court will be broadened.

The high cost of law is about as vexatious as the high cost of living. In the abstract sense, all men are equal before the law in this country. Actually, the man with the longest purse stands much the better chance of getting a decision. He can bring to his defense every aid of technicality and outworn precedent, protracting litigation until he has exhausted the financial resources of his opponent.

The Chicago plan may not be applicable to the range of courts. Indeed, considering the complexity of causes of litigation in this country, it is certain that in a great many cases the need of legally equipped and educated representatives will for a long time be needed by a large percentage of litigants. But anything that simplifies procedure and lessens technicality is a step won. In that sense the Chicago experiment will be watched with interest everywhere.

More Mexican trouble in sight: They are compiling a New Year list of generals.

The real burden of Mexico is that she has more leaders to the minute than judgment to the mile.

Friend of heart's desire;
You shall have the honor-chair
At this winter-fire.
Traveling far as east from west,
Surely you have need of rest?

II.

But this Traveler of all lands,
Through bleak winds are crying,
Stays not even to warm his hands
Where the sparks are flying.
Just a hearty grip, and then
To the wide, world-way again!

III.

Yet this word he leaves with me
One bright smile bestowing:
"Hope and heart unfettered—free—
Keep the world-fire glowing!
Glowing—till it blaze the way
Through the darkness to the day!"

As Billville Sees It Now.

Nothing left. The New Year resolution has even stared us out of countenance.

We need another hilltop from which to shout "Hurrah." We had one, but the devil caught us at it.

No, money isn't the secret of happiness. It merely fills the bill, and covers the ground, and makes the world look worth while on a dark morning.

Last year we wasted valuable time hunting trouble. This year we shall take to the woods and let Trouble do all the hunting.

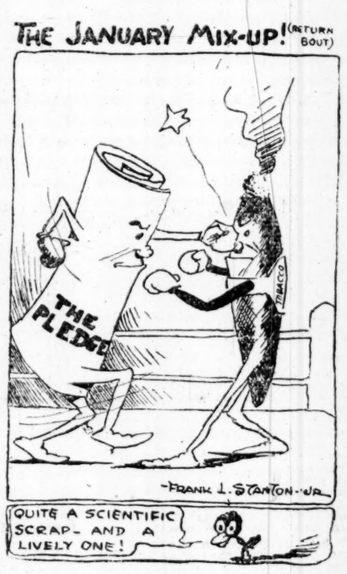

The world was exactly as God made it until man got ripping mad because the plans hadn't been submitted to him, and went to war about it.

From an Author's Journal.

My new holiday book didn't sell, and yet it can't be beat as a parlor ornament.

I had a dozen New Year invitations to dine, but I'll never make good unless they scatter them through the year.

There may be comfort in going down to Posterity; but it's according to how hard you hit.

I don't like to kill my hero in the middle of a story, but my critics tell me all of them deserve it.

Notwithstanding the fact that I have written sixteen songs of Peace, the war goes forward with greater fury than ever.

The Holiday Show.

The Adams Enterprise poet's description of a holiday show at home:

"A show of all home talent,
They read their titles clear;
The old man played the devil—
Like he's done for forty year.

"Across the stage he stumbled,
And spi'led the Christmas crop,
Then from that stage he tumbled
With the Christmas tree on top.

"He needed space much wider—
Ceilin' an' floor a-hittin';
The man that drinks 'spiked' cider
Is hardly ever fitten."

Glass Eye for Fighting Purposes.

A Paris correspondent of The New York Times tells of a curious war-appeal received by an oculist there:

"I joined my regiment at the beginning of the war and fought throughout uninjured, but am now greatly distressed by the breaking in a recent combat of the glass eye you supplied me some years ago. The doctor, noticing it, holds me in hospital, which makes me very sad. Please forward a new eye, so that I may rejoin my comrades. I have no money here, but I promise to pay at the end of the war. Respectfully,

The Holland Letter

It is commonly believed in the Wall street district that since the opening of the stock exchange the disposition has been strong to overdiscount, as the term is, market conditions; that is to say, instead of a disposition to forecast the future by such favorable action as appreciation of securities would show, the tendency has been the other way. This, however, is thought to be not a bad but a good condition. No small part of the transactions in the exchange appears to have been for the account of weak or timid holders of securities who have been struggling under the burden of carrying them since last August. They have been, since the stock exchange was opened, taking advantage of the opportunity for ridding themselves of these burdens.

It can be reported that there are many evidences of renewed confidence. Not the least of these is furnished by the manner in which business men everywhere have accepted the spirit which is contained in the recent decision of the interstate commerce commission permitting the eastern railroads to increase rates. The more direct effect upon business will be felt a little later when the railroads are in a position to secure new capital. Almost all of this will be disbursed in the purchase of equipment, supplies and various commodities needed for the improvement of the railway systems. The belief is also strong that business in the United States will, gradually at first and then with leaps and bounds, increase until our people have all they can do to meet the demands, both domestic and foreign.

The public does not as yet fully understand how widespread is the interest of our manufacturers in the various propositions which have been made for the purpose of increasing our export trade. The best informed are inclined to think that the record made by our exports in the year 1915 will be not only the greatest we have ever made, but will also come very near matching in money value the exports from Great Britain in the past four or five years.

There are in this city visible evidences of this interest. One of the organizations recently created for the purpose of perfecting methods by which our foreign trade may be increased now has on file 13,000 letters as well as abstracts of personal interviews which represent the sentiment of manufacturers in every part of the country. Many of these manufacturers are anxious to embark in foreign trade, although heretofore they have not done this. All of the letters show that the feeling is general that the opportunity is now in hand for every business man in the United States to share in the movement for the sale in foreign lands of American commodities.

Work of Great Railroad Company.

There can be no better illustration of the spirit which characterizes all who see what the opportunities are than one which is furnished by the Southern Railroad company. Incidentally it may be said that this great corporation has to as great an extent as any other railroad company in the United States undertaken to establish full co-operation between the people of the districts through which it passes and the railroad company itself. Until recently, however, this co-operation was almost exclusively domestic. The managers of the Southern corporation, in the spring of last year, organized a highly-perfected system designed to explain what the opportunities for foreign trade are and how they may be met, especially by the people of the south. It is an organization in which the president of the Southern, Fairfax Harrison, is greatly interested, and in the nine months since its organization the agent, C. L. Chandler, has already accomplished a great work. Some years ago the managers of the Gould system of railroads undertook to develop trade chiefly with Mexico and, until chaotic conditions prevailed in Mexico, met with a good deal of success. This example was followed by four other railroad systems, among them the Southern. The Southern railroad's agency is now in position to give reliable information to merchants and manufacturers of the south respecting the places where their commodities can be sold, and also furnishing detailed information as to the best manner of meeting the requirements of different markets. This is a movement, too, which works both ways, for the organization is in communication with merchants and manufacturers in the countries of the south of us and is in position to advise them about the kind of goods that can be obtained in the south which they need, and also what the facilities are of various southern ports for shipments. There is a concrete bit of evidence which shows what the effect of this organization work already is. The agency has already learned that about 12,000 Americans are now busily occupied in learning the Spanish language, learning to speak it as well as to read it. A good many manufacturers of the south are already establishing agencies in South America. It is expected that there will speedily develop on account of the completion of the Panama canal a great amount of traffic offered at all points of the Mississippi valley and in the middle west which will be moved to the southern seaports and thence ship to Central and South American countries. President Harrison now has the gratification of knowing that the Southern railroad has perfected as large an organization as is to be found in the United States which is exclusively occupied with stimulating export business.

This illustration is here reported for the purpose of showing the extent to which the American people are now occupied in preparing to meet the great opportunities for increasing, and then maintaining, our foreign trade.

A Millionaire's Estate.

No one among his associates at the bar and probably none of his intimate friends would have estimated the estate of the late Judge William B. Hornblower at much more than $200,000 or $300,000 at the most. Yet the official appraisal of the estate, which has just been completed, shows a valuation a little in excess of $1,000,000.

Judge Hornblower had been in practice at the bar for about forty years. He was careful about his association and would accept no retainers which involved the showing of unscrupulous persons a way by which they could accomplish their purpose by getting around the law. He lived modestly, did not entertain much, and at no time made any display of his wealth. When President Cleveland nominated him as associate justice of the supreme court at Washington, some of Judge Hornblower's friends thought that he could not afford to accept the post, for it was presumed that he had still to devote many years to professional work if he were to secure a competency for his family.

The details of the appraisal show that he was wise in his investments for the most part, only one of them having turned out badly. He bought real estate in New York with good judgment and he made various dispositions of his income and principal so that his estate is fairly well divided between real and personal property. He did not, as did one of his warm friends, convert all of his income and principal into government bonds, explaining that peculiar action by saying that the investment did not cause him to worry and that the income from it was sufficient for his modest needs. There are not many lawyers at the New York bar in proportion to the number of practicing lawyers who have accumulated an estate approximating a million dollars in forty years' practice. Judge Hornblower was, when he became a member of the court of appeals bench last summer, about the age when the great English jurists go from the bar to the bench. In all probability, his life was shortened because of the grievous and almost unbearable shock which he received when he learned of the tragic death of his son.

HOLLAND.

FLINT, MICHIGAN.

BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Flint, Mich., is a by-product of the automobile industry. In 1900, before any means had been found of compelling gasoline to do a decent day's work, Flint was a modest place of 15,000 people which made wagons and buggies for a living and created no disturbance whatever on the map. The hotel still served its dishes in cute little china bathtubs and the principal outdoor amusement was going down to the depot to see the Pere Marquette trains come in.

Then an earnest mechanic with a few restless dollars started an automobile factory and Flint began to spread like chickenpox in a congested neighborhood.

Today Flint has close to 50,000 people. It consists of an automobile factory with appropriate municipal surroundings. Its own stock isn't half as important as the factory whistle, for when the latter blows in the morning a large majority of the voting population can be found on the job. The Flint of today is the Flint of 1900 plus the third largest automobile works in the world, and it is so big a difference that when the old resident returns to his native town he gets lost on the main street and finds the dear old duckpond of his boyhood days buried under a business block.

In 1900 the principal outdoor amusement was going down to the depot to see the Pere Marquette trains come in.

Flint has ornamental lights, country clubs, taxicabs, interurbans, a league baseball team, a smart set and all the other perquisites of an American city of 50,000. But it has something else twice as interesting. It has several thousand workmen who own their own homes and large numbers of the same who drive to and from their work in Flint-made automobiles. It has more garages per thousand people than any other American city, and its common, class B voters consume more gasoline than beer. Overalls are very deceiving in Flint. The only difference between some of the overall wearers in Flint and some of the tail-coat wearers in larger cities is the fact that the Flint man may draw $75 a week while the other man receives $4,000 a year.

Flint has been largely responsible for giving several hundred thousand farm horses a nice long rest on Sundays while their owners career from county to county in touring cars. It has done more for the horse and Rockefeller than any city of its size in the world.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

FAME TRAVELS.

Job Jagsworth came to Punkville's shore, upon a breezy autumn day, and then he went to Corker's store, and said, "I've settled here to stay. A check I looked for isn't here, but it will come—it's overdue; so I must ask of you, I fear, some credit for a week or two." Old Corker scratched his snowy head, and took a paper from a hook; "I have a letter here," he said, "informing me that you're a crook. This comes from Mudtown-on-the-Hill, where you have lived a year or two; it says you never pay a bill while there's a chance to dodge in view. So, Mr. Jagsworth, there's the door, in which I take an honest pride; I pray you leave my moral store, and soak your head a while outside." There was a time when heats could go from town to town and play their game, for merchants didn't seem to know the way to circumvent the same. But now the man who will not pay is known and sidestepped everywhere; he cannot move so far away his reputation won't be there. And having won that sort of fame, 'twill always be a grievous load, and bring the burning blush of shame, when he has quit the crooked road. Be straight, be honest as the day, and never dodge a bill that's due; you'll find, where'er you chance to stray, that sort of fame will travel, too.

Rubber Industry Seriously Menaced by British Embargo

The announcement that Great Britain has extended the assurance that it will not further throw obstacles in the way of the shipment of rubber will be read with interest.

The employment of 250,000 workmen in the United States was involved, great investments of capital were threatened and the people of the United States were confronted with the probability of famine prices for rubber goods.

Admittedly acting well within her rights in placing the embargoes on all raw materials, England is seeing the crude rubber accumulating on her docks, with her rubber industry in a desperate condition as to finances, in order, it is held, that concessions may be obtained from the United States in other things. Her exact intentions in this respect are not known.

Meanwhile crude rubber in New York is selling at from 87 to 91 cents a pound; in England it is going begging at 51 cents a pound. If this continues, it means that the United States will pay next year about 100 per cent advance on the prices of automobile accessories, druggists' sundries, articles of clothing, household goods and thousands of other things in the manufacture of which rubber is used.

American Agent Sails.

The sailing of B. G. Work, of the Goodrich Rubber company, by the Lusitania for England was to enable the American rubber men to co-operate directly with the British rubber handlers in a new effort to have the ban lifted.

The embargo committee, which has visited Secretary of State Bryan as well as Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, several times consists of George B. Hodgman, president of the Hodgman Rubber company and president of the Rubber Club of America, chairman; William E. Bruyn, of L. Littlejohn & Co., and president of the Rubber Trade association, of New York; Arthur H. Marks, vice president of B. F. Goodrich & Co., and H. Stuart Hotchkiss, vice president of the General Rubber company.

The normal requirements of crude rubber by the United States for 1915 will be 65,000 tons. So long as the British government maintains the present embargo there is only available for the United States about 35,000 tons from Brazil and 5,000 tons from other sources. Europe will take at least 7,500 tons of the Brazilian crop, regardless of price, so that the United States is confronted with a demand of 65,000 tons and an available supply of about 32,500. The United States will be about 30,000 tons short, and the other countries oversupplied to the same extent.

Since the Brazilian and African production will be absorbed mainly in the United States, the oversupply will be in the plantation products controlled by Great Britain. The Brazilian rubber will go to very high prices and bring great wealth to Brazil; the British rubbers will steadily decrease in value and finally cause tremendous loss to the producers.

Brazilian rubbers are steadily advancing and the British rubbers are gradually falling off in price. However, the progress is not yet material, because American manufacturers are working from hand to mouth, hoping for the removal of the embargo. They are buying as yet only a fraction of their requirements from Brazil, preferring to shut down their factories rather than buy high-priced rubber under the present uncertainty over the duration of the embargo.

Purchases Stored Abroad.

On the other hand, the drop in prices of British rubber is not yet severe because American manufacturers, hoping for a speedy settlement of the embargo, have continued to buy their usual quantities of British rubber, storing it in Singapore, Colombo, England and Canada for prompt shipment to New York when trade is resumed.

These conditions cannot exist much longer, rubber handlers here assert. There is a limit to the amount of British rubber Americans can afford to finance and carry abroad, and that limit will soon be reached. As soon as American buying ceases the price of British rubber will fall to the point where British dealers and plantation owners will be confronted with ruin.

Americans will soon be compelled to decide whether to buy Brazilian rubber or close their factories. It is obviously dangerous, they think, to buy Brazilian rubber now at inflated prices because the embargo may be removed at any time. Then the price of this rubber will fall 50 per cent, and those who have bought will be at a great disadvantage over those who have waited. However, those who buy now will have a great advantage over those who wait in the event that the embargo stands.

The United States manufacturer is in a most difficult position. He ought to buy, but he dares not. He ought at this season of the year to be manufacturing heavily, but he hasn't the material. About one-half of the rubber workers are now unemployed and in need, but nothing can be done for them until the embargo is removed or stability given to the industry in some other way. It is safe to say that the number of unemployed will steadily increase if relief does not come soon.

Three Suggestions for Relief.

American rubber dealers and users have suggested that relief be provided in one of these three ways:

Removal of the embargo under proper guarantees.

Agreement by the British government that it will not remove the embargo for at least six months.

Immediate action by the American congress prohibiting absolutely the importation of British rubbers or products thereof, or any kind of manufactured rubber goods, into the United States.

Of these three measures the first is preferred. It would restore the manufacturing industry of the United States and the crude rubber industry of Great Britain to a normal and healthy basis immediately and without the creation of hostility, the handlers say.

It is difficult for those who are not familiar with the situation to understand why the embargo was not long ago removed. According to authoritative statements made, this is due to a lack of knowledge as to the real purposes of the embargo, which are:

To create rubber famine in Germany and Austria.

To benefit the rubber manufacturers of England and her colonies at the expense of those of the United States by creating such an overwhelming advantage in cost that not only must all foreign trade go to Great Britain, but perhaps even the home consumption of the United States.

To create pressure on the American government to accede to certain requests of the British government not pertaining at all to rubber.

Whether the welfare of the British manufacturers was taken into consideration or not, the result is that the British manufacturer today buys his principal raw material for one-half what the American pays. In competition for foreign business, under those conditions, the United States manufacturer will soon be a negligible factor. Even his home market will be entered and taken from him, because the import duty of 12 per cent is no protection against the difference in cost which now exists.

The rubber manufacturers of England, France, Canada and Australia will soon flood this market unless relief is arranged, the rubber men say.

Advertising Novelty.

(From The Kansas City Times.)

Seeking a novel way of advertising a Grant City firm announced that from the roof of its store it would turn loose three fowls, finders to be keepers, unless the lucky ones preferred a sack of flour in exchange. The event came off as scheduled and was rather tame as to a rooster and big turkey. These were captured without much exertion. Not so a guinea hen, which flew all about town, dodging stones and snowballs, until at last it was treed on a back fence.

HOOSIER ROUTE SEEMS ASSURED

Donation of $50,000 by C. E. James, of Chattanooga. This Gift Is Characteristic of Spirit Along the Route.

The interest which is being taken along the route of the proposed "Hoosierland-to-Dixie" highway, all the way from Chicago to Jacksonville, indicates that the highway is now assured.

Fred H. Cantrell and W. B. Bender, representing the automobile club, the tourist and convention bureau and the chamber of commerce of Chattanooga, and W. S. Gilbreath, secretary of the Hoosier Motor club, of Indianapolis, Ind., were in Atlanta yesterday, and made the announcement that C. E. James, of Chattanooga, will make a donation of $50,000 and will furnish the engineering survey for the construction of that part of the highway stretching from Signal point, near Chattanooga, 60 miles northward to Crossville.

This substantial donation, say the visitors, is characteristic of the favorable spirit they have found all along the proposed route.

Mr. Gilbreath has come down from Indianapolis and states that the people in the middle west are very enthusiastic over the proposed highway.

Chattanooga and the adjacent territory are pulling tooth and nail for the immediate construction of the highway, stated Mr. Bender and Mr. Cantrell.

Mr. Gilbreath left Atlanta last night for Miami, Fla., and will in a week or so return by way of Jacksonville and stop at all the principal points which the route touches between Atlanta and Jacksonville.

Date for Meeting.

The date for the meeting of the governors of the states through which the highway will pass—namely, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida—has been set for April 3 next, in Chattanooga. It is anticipated that the governors of all these states can arrange to be present and a co-operative plan will be outlined for the construction of the highway.

In the meantime a meeting will be held either in Atlanta or Chattanooga, at which a preliminary plan will be outlined to be presented to the governors.

A board of directors, consisting of about five or seven capable men interested in the highway, will soon be chosen, and these directors will have active charge of pushing the project along.

Consuls will be appointed in each country through which the highway passes in each of the states. It will be the duty of each of these consuls to look after the interests of the highway in his particular county. Lists of the appointments are ready in some instances and will be made public in a short while.

It is also proposed in the near future to run booster trains from both Atlanta and Chattanooga to meet in the intervening mountain countries where the roads are in the worst shape and boost the highway project along.

Mr. Cantrell and Mr. Bender were authorized to say for the civic and boosting bodies of Chattanooga, which they represented, that Chattanooga stands ready to co-operate fully with Atlanta in the furthering of the highway scheme, and that Chattanooga is anxious for Atlanta to take a keen interest in the matter.

"There is no limit Chattanooga will not go for Atlanta if she wants it," said the representatives.

Mr. Gilbreath, whose motor club was the originator of the idea of the highway, declared that the interest in the highway is growing faster than in any big movement he has ever seen.

Long Time to Complete.

"The construction of such a highway as this," he said, "is not a matter of months or a year, but of many years. It takes time and money and energy and undying interest. The people all along the route have taken a wonderful interest in the project, and there is not the slightest doubt that the plan will be carried out.

"I have found the people of Tennessee and Georgia, in which states the worst sections of the route lie, to be particularly enthusiastic."

Mr. Cantrell, in explaining the significance of the donation of Mr. James, stated that it would mean the immediate establishment of a link of magnificent roadway all the way from Chattanooga to Louisville, Ky. From Chattanooga up to Signal Point, where the section Mr. James promises to help improve begins, is a distance of 9.6 miles, and is one of the finest boulevards in the southern states. From Signal Point the road, for which Mr. James is making the donation, will stretch away for a distance of 60 miles along the ridge of Signal mountain and the plateau to Crossville. When completed this road along the ridge will be a piked boulevard, unexcelled by any, and one of the most remarkable in the world for its scenery.

The road between Crossville and Bardstown is already in fair shape. From Bardstown to Louisville there is a splendid bitulithic boulevard. When this boulevard lacked but 1 mile of reaching Louisville the Louisville Automobile club raised the money and built a solid mile of concrete roadway to complete this link.

Mr. Bender told of some great meetings that have been held in Chattanooga and towns around there in the interest of the highway, and declared that interest there is most enthusiastic.

Chattanooga is making great plans for the entertainment of the governors at the coming meeting, and it is the hope of Mr. Bender and Mr. Cantrell that there will be a special train from Atlanta and this section to Chattanooga taking good roads boosters to the meeting.

BRYAN WIRES SLATON IN REGARD TO ROSIN

State Department Is Giving the Matter Careful Consideration, He Says.

In response to his recent urgent appeal to Secretary of State William J. Bryan, asking that he use his influence with Great Britain to have naval stores removed from the contraband list, Governor Slaton on Monday received a telegram from Secretary Bryan stating that the matter is receiving the earnest attention of the department. The secretary explains the status of resinous products in his telegram, which follows:

"Washington, D. C., January 2, 1915. Governor John M. Slaton, Atlanta, Ga.: Matter of placing resinous products and turpentine on list of contrabrand by Great Britain is receiving the earnest attention of department. It is understood unofficially that the ground advanced for this action by Great Britain is that resinous products and turpentine are used in the manufacture of an explosive which is impervious to dampness. The language in the contrabrand list as received by department from London is 'resinous products, camphor and turpentine oil and spirits.' The department will make inquiry of the British government whether terms include rosin proper.

GEORGE W. HARRISON IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Col. George W. Harrison, for many years one of Atlanta's best known citizens, is seriously ill at his home on Peachtree road, having been suddenly attacked by pneumonia a few days ago. On Tuesday morning Col. Harrison's condition was such as to cause great concern, but announcement was made by his physicians on Tuesday night that the crisis had probably been safely passed.

Col. Harrison was for many years state printer and numbers his friends in every section of the state. He was also at one time prominent in local politics, one of the big pumps at the waterworks bearing his name. He is an earnest church worker, being an elder of the First Presbyterian church.

This will be followed by a general discussion by members of the society. The general public is cordially invited.

FINAL PAYMENT MADE BY SOUTHERN

The Southern railway has made its final payment to the state for the purchase of the old Northeastern railroad, running from Athens, via Commerce, to Lula.

When the Northeastern was constructed, some forty-odd years ago, the state guaranteed its bonds. The state later foreclosed and sold to the Southern.

CANDIDATES ANNOUNCE FOR ROME COMMISSION

Rome, Ga., January 4.—(Special.)—John P. Davis, who for twenty-four years was ordinary of Floyd county, and who is at present in the real estate business, has announced his candidacy for first commissioner of Rome. There are three other candidates in the race: C. S. Pruden, freight agent of the Central of Georgia railway; Cornelius Terhune, chairman of the finance committee of city council, and W. M. Gammon, former chairman of the board of county commissioners. The announcement of J. R. Cantrell, former city clerk, is expected at an early date. The city executive committee will meet some time this month to decide whether or not a primary should be held, and to draw up rules, etc. The commission form of government goes into effect in Rome on the first of April.

ASHCROFT'S CHARGES IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Rome, Ga., January 4.—(Special.)—Alleging that his wife, Mrs. Rena Ashcroft, who for four years was a model helpmeet, had suddenly become addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors, A. C. Ashcroft has filed suit for divorce against her. The couple were married on December 22, 1910. The alleged trouble arose in November of 1914, when the complainant asserts that his wife, while under the influence of liquor, attacked him and treated him with extreme cruelty. He also alleges that she was guilty of a statutory offense, and cites Feaster McCurry as co-respondent. Ashcroft asks the custody of his four children.

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED AT WETUMPKA, ALA.

Montgomery, Ala., January 4.—Ed and Will Smith, negroes, held as suspects in connection with the killing last Thursday of R. A. Stillwell, an Elmore county farmer, were lynched early today near Wetumpka, 15 miles from this city.

About 1:30 o'clock this morning, according to Elmore county officials, a mob of fifteen or twenty men, masked and heavily armed, entered the jail at Wetumpka, overpowered the sheriff, bound him to a chair and compelled a negro trusty to unlock the cells where the Smith negroes were. After binding the negroes the mob left with them in charge, going toward Elmore station.

Nothing as yet is known regarding the movements of the mob after leaving the jail and no official report has been made as to the finding of the bodies of the two negroes.

State troops, which were hurriedly dispatched to Wetumpka from this city, are reported to be searching for the men who took the negroes from jail. No arrests have yet been reported.

The bodies of the negroes were found hanging from trees in the woods near Elmore station, five miles from Wetumpka, this morning. Three suspected members of the lynching party are in jail at Wetumpka, but their identities are being kept secret by the authorities.

Governor O'Neal has ordered a special session of the Elmore county grand jury to investigate the lynchings. Two three Montgomery companies of the state militia will remain at Wetumpka throughout the day.

LOCK BANKERS IN VAULT AND THEN STEAL $3,000

Little Rock, Ark., January 4.—Three men early this afternoon entered the Central Bank and Trust company, of this city, locked the cashier, D. E. Walden, Teller T. E. Hale and a woman stenographer in the bank's vault and escaped with $3,000. Ten minutes later the three employees were released from the vault. None of the robbers was masked.

The men were well dressed, and when they entered the bank one asked the cashier to change for a $5 bill. When Cashier Walden's hands appeared above the counter he was ordered at the point of a pistol to keep them there. The other bandits covered the teller and stenographer.

The men left the bank about five minutes before two customers entered.

It is believed the same men robbed the home of F. O. Rogers Wednesday night, when $2,000 worth of jewels were taken.

KILLED THREE CHILDREN, THEIR MOTHER AND SELF

Luray, Va., January 4.—A coroner's jury, investigating the murder of Mrs. Charles E. Burner and her three little children in their mountain home five miles from here some time on Saturday night, today returned a verdict that they came to their death at the hands of William Nichols. The body of Nichols was found this morning in the home of Westley Price, where he had blown his head off with a shotgun. It developed at the inquest that when Mr. Burner left his home on Saturday evening Nichols remained at the Burner home to look after the stock. What happened after that and before the murders never will be known.

Nichols, it is said, had been paying unwelcome attention to Mrs. Burner, and jealousy over the return of the husband, recently released from the state convict force, is assigned as the cause.

Gruesome details were given at the inquest. Hamilton, 5 years old, the oldest child, had been struck with an ax, the blade penetrating the brain, two fingers were cut off and the body mutilated. Walter, 4 years old, was pulled from his bed and his face split open from ear to ear, and one of his hands is missing. The year-old baby, found in its mother's arms, had been killed by a blow on the head. Deep gashes cover the entire body of Mrs. Burner.

ROTARIANS TO MAKE MERRY AT LUNCHEON AT WINECOFF TODAY

The Rotary club, of Atlanta, is going to have a "nickname" luncheon this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the "Southern Gardens" of the Winecoff hotel. The Rotarians feel as though they want to be kids again and they're goin' to bring along with 'em the "nicknames" they carried when they were "baggin' school" an' playin' tops and shootin' marbles.

The club membership rollcall will be called by "nickname" and the erstwhile staid and dignified business man must "fess up" that in days gone by he was known, not as Kendall, Herman or Boyd, but plain, everyday "Slats" and "Skitts" and "Muggsy."

Rotarian Henry Davis, who has his finger on the business pulse of the south, will speak on "Business Conditions and the Outlook for 1915," and Rotarian Kendall Weisiger, chairman of the Christmas fund committee, will tell how many hearts were made glad through the club's Christmas savings fund, which was distributed among Atlanta's poor.

AUGUSTA CHRONICLE IS IN NEW QUARTERS

The Augusta Chronicle, oldest newspaper in the south, having celebrated its 139th anniversary, has moved into its handsome new building at 739-741 Broad street, one of the finest business structures in that city.

The paper was published first as a weekly in 1785, by John E. Smith, under the same name it now retains.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person is troubled with catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh indicates a weakened condition of the body; that the secretion of the mucous membranes are quickly affected, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

WOODWARD WANTS JOB FOR CLAYTON

However, He Did Not Care to Approve the Ordinance Introduced by Nutting. Will Sign Ordinance by New Man.

For more than three months, friends of Captain R. M. Clayton, who retires as chief of construction after serving the city for more than a quarter of a century, have been trying to get Mayor James G. Woodward to approve an ordinance creating the office of consulting engineer of the city at a comfortable salary.

But each time the ordinance was presented to Mayor Woodward he disapproved it, and each time he gave a different reason. First, he said the salary of $3,000 per annum was too much money for the city to pay out, and when the salary was reduced, the mayor again objected to the ordinance. Finally the ordinance was redrafted and the salary was made $1,200 per annum, a sum which was suggested by the mayor.

To all appearances the redrafted ordinance, which was adopted by council and the aldermanic board, was just what the mayor wanted, and in his eagerness to have the measure signed and adopted and made of record as one of his last acts in council, Alderman James R. Nutting hurried, after the meeting of council, into the mayor's office with a view of having the mayor's signature attached to the act.

Anticipated Visit.

Evidently Mayor Woodward anticipated the visit of Alderman Nutting. He was primed up for a final setto with the sixth ward representative, and when he was asked to sign the ordinance he blew up:

"No, by gad, I won't," he said. "And, furthermore, I am going to veto the ordinance when it comes to me. I have four days to act on it—"

"But, Mr. Mayor, you said that you would sign the ordinance if it was passed up in the shape to meet with your approval, and that is just what we have done. It is just like you want it," assured Alderman Nutting.

"Well, I am not going to sign it," the mayor reiterated. "Anyhow, I don't see any reason why I should sign it just because you want it signed. You have cussed out this office whenever you felt so inclined, so I don't see any reason why you should ask me for any favors."

And that ended the matter in so far as Alderman Nutting was concerned. The mayor didn't sign the ordinance, and he won't sign it. But he will approve the first ordinance which is presented to him coming from some member of the new council. The mayor has not said so in so many words, but he gave such an intimation.

All of which goes to explain some rather peculiar conduct on the part of the mayor. His friends could not understand why he did not approve the ordinance. They knew that he wanted Captain Clayton made consulting engineer of the city, and they also knew that he was willing to go further than that and give Captain Clayton a better position if he wanted it.

Favored Clayton.

At the recent meeting of the park board when J. O. Cochran was elected general manager over Dan Carey, Mayor Woodward declared that he did not favor either Carey or Cochran.

"We ought to get a good man in the place," said the mayor at that time, "and I don't know of a better man for the place than Bob Clayton, and I nominate him for the place."

And the mayor said afterwards that he meant what he said.

In the face of events, friends of Mayor Woodward say that they can now see through his opposition to the Nutting ordinance. They say that the mayor was not opposed to the measure, but was opposed to Alderman Nutting engineering it through council.

"The mayor didn't intend letting Nutting put one over on him on the last day of his term," say his friends.

Alderman Nutting passed out of council Monday afternoon. Consequently his last act met with failure.

No Brindle Bulldogs Will Chase Law-Breakers Of Atlanta, Says Beavers

Police Chief James L. Beavers last night denied any intention on his part of recommending to the police board that brindle bulldogs be added to the police force, to accompany patrolmen on the morning watch, and help them run down criminals.

"I never have entertained the idea of adding any kind of dogs to the force," said Chief Beavers, "and I don't see how the reporters got the idea that I had.

"I was simply telling them of an experience I once had with a gang of robbers, when a brindle bulldog I had with me jumped in and helped me clean up the bunch.

"The reporters got that much of their story right, but the rest must have been the product of their vivid imaginations."

ITCHING NEARLY DROVE A WHOLE FAMILY CRAZY

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24, 1914:—"My husband had a rash all over his body, and soon the WHOLE FAMILY was in the same condition. It looked scaly and raised up on the arms and body in big bumps. This trouble burned and itched so that it would nearly drive one crazy. It was always worse at night, so we could not sleep. We all had this trouble for about two or three years, and during that time tried many remedies and prescriptions with no results. We tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and it RELIEVED AT ONCE, and before the third jar of ointment had been used, we were all completely cured. It has been four months since we were cured, and there are no traces of the trouble."—(Signed) Mrs. S. A. Clarkson, 1520 Lawn Ave.

Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. For trial free, write to Dept. 1-R, Resinol, Baltimore.

NEGROES BOUND OVER FOR MANY BURGLARIES

Witnesses Identify Williams and Mitchell as Assailants.

According to the testimony of many witnesses in Judge Johnson's police court Monday afternoon, Scott Mitchell and Floyd Williams, two alleged negro highwaymen, are the most dangerous robbers the police have captured in some time.

Scott Mitchell was bound over on the charges of assault with intent to murder and robbery, while Williams was bound over for robbery. Mitchell's bond was assessed at $5,000, and the latter's at $2,000.

Seven witnesses, including two young women and one child, positively identified Mitchell as having been the highwayman who had robbed them. Two of the witnesses swore that he had held them up on two separate occasions.

Sam Kosnnofsky and his young daughter, Miss Gertie Kosnnofsky, who run a store at 241 Fraser street, were the witnesses to testify that Mitchell had twice robbed them at the point of a pistol, giving the dates of the robberies as December 26 and 28.

One Robbery Too Many.

Mrs. Pearl Lubetzky, young Israel Lubetzky and I. Lubetzky, of 119 Connally street, identified both the negroes as the robbers who had entered their store last Saturday night and robbed the cash register, fleeing when Mr. Lubetzky opened fire on them. It was this robbery that led to their capture by the police.

Sandy Tigner, a negro living at 44 Glennwood avenue, near the Lubetzky store, saw the negroes coming out of the store, followed them to town on the street car and pointed them out to Traffic Officer Martin, at the corner of Alabama and Whitehall streets. Here Williams was captured, but Mitchell escaped. Tigner, later during the night, again saw Mitchell on Decatur street, where he again pointed him out to the officers. A chase of several blocks followed, which was brought to an end when an ex-convict, a negro, tackled Mitchell, threw him to the ground and held him until the arrival of the police.

Willing Witnesses Found.

Officers Milam and Brannon began to investigate the negroes, and found many other witnesses to identify them as having held them up.

Joe Libowsky, of 334 Auburn avenue, swore that Scott had robbed him on Boulevard, near the old fair grounds, last Monday night. L. Schoenburg, a clerk in a clothing store at 157 Irwin street, testified that Mitchell, the night of December 1, entered his store, holding a pistol in his hand, ordering him to hold up his hands. When Schoenburg, according to his testimony, resisted the robber, Mitchell opened fire, the bullet lodging in his clothing.

The negroes denied knowing anything of the robberies.

LATEST NELMS CASE "CLEW" IS EXPLODED

Bones Unearthed in Texas Are the Remains of Two Mexicans.

News from San Antonio yesterday again plunged the Nelms case into mystery. Dr. George H. Dashiell, of Devine, Texas, has pronounced the recently discovered skulls and bones to be those of Mexicans buried at least five years ago.

The skulls were at first thought to have been those of the missing Atlanta sisters. Marshal Nelms wired last night for a complete description of the teeth of his sisters so that an effort could be made at identification.

Dr. Dasheill says that the bones are probably those of a Mexican and his wife who were murdered in the vicinity of Devine about six years ago. He states that the skulls had been buried fully that length of time. Only one of them retained any shape. The size indicated that the persons were of small stature.

This revelation now will lead to the concentration of efforts upon the move to bring Innes and his wife to Atlanta for prosecution under grand jury indictments of larceny after trust. This action is awaiting a decision of the United States supreme court, to which the prisoners have appealed in effort to prevent extradition from Texas. Innes and his wife are still in jail in San Antonio.

HOUSTON WILL FACE TWO OF HIS VICTIMS

Wives Nos. 2 and 3 Will Appear at His Commitment Trial Next Month.

Hazlehurst, January 4.—(Special.)—Judge Grant, of the city court, has issued a warrant for John S. Houston for bigamy, who claims to be a lawyer and is now serving sentence for larceny on the Dodge county gang. It is alleged that Houston first married a Miss Wisdom, of Missouri, and by this marriage he has six children, and that in February, 1914, he married Miss Matilda Roberts, of North Carolina, and soon tiring of her, did, in March, 1914, marry one Miss Cora May Stroud, of Travelers Rest, S. C., and likewise tiring of her, crossed over into Georgia and on the 6th day of April, 1914, married one Miss Edna Garrison, of Helena, Ga.; Miss Roberts and Miss Stroud being wives Nos. 2 and 3, will appear before Judge Grant at the commitment trial to tell of their muchly-married spouse on the first of Februray, at which time his present sentence on the chain gang of Dodge county will expire.

It will be remembered that Houston made a sensational escape a short time ago from the authorities of Dodge county and was later recaptured.

Gamblers Are Sentenced.

Judge Grant tried Abe Young, Green Butler, Oscar Umphries and Bob McNeir, giving each sentences of from nine to twelve months or fines of from $75 to $100 each.

Sheriff Ellis, in making a search on Saturday night flushed a game of "skin" in which eight were engaged and caught four out of the eight and secured the money and deck of cards. This makes two separate crowds of gaming that has been flushed and tried in the past ten days, all receiving heavy sentences.

LONDON EXCHANGE RESUMES BUSINESS

Stocks Traded Under Severe Restrictions to Prevent Panic Selling.

London, January 4.—The London stock exchange reopened for business today after having been closed since July 30. Severe restrictions were placed upon trading to prevent anything approaching panic selling or the unloading of securities by hostile countries.

A number of British and French members were absent because of the war, while the exclusion of aliens, who were not able to satisfy the committee that they had severed all connection with foreign countries, reduced somewhat the foreign attendance.

The fact that business has been resumed, even on a limited scale and under restrictions, is taken to indicate that the greatest crisis in the history of the exchange has been safely negotiated through the combined efforts of the treasury and the exchange committee.

Several English members appeared on the exchange in khaki. There was no shouting of bids across the house and the business was on a strictly cash basis. The committee decided to allow dealings only between the hours of 11 and 3, inside or outside the stock exchange, and with arbitrage business banned there will be no street dealings in American securities at the present time.

The general opinion that the restrictions on trading would curtail business to a considerable extent was borne out during the first half hour. Not a single bargain occurred in Americans and only a few of these securities appeared. The war loan was marked at 94⅝ and then at 94 9-16. India, 3½ per cents were quoted at 83⅛ and Rio Tintos nominally at 57. Union Pacifics were 119 and consols 68½.

BUSINESS FAILURES DURING YEAR 1914

There was a marked expansion in the business mortality in the United States during 1914, commercial failures, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., numbering 18,280 and supplying $357,908,859 of defaulted indebtedness. This contrasts with 16,037 suspensions in the preceding year for $272,672,288, and in both respects the returns compared adversely with all earlier periods. The unusually heavy liabilities, however, were largely due to a comparatively few insolvences of exceptional size, the financial difficulties of a prominent dry goods house, with its various affiliations, alone accounting for more than one-tenth of the total amount involved. In regard to the numerical increase, this in a measure was traceable to the effects of the European war, which accentuated the depression in trade and industry and exerted a particularly unfavorable influence on conditions in the south because of the consequent collapse of cotton prices. Losses were materially swelled by this event and more reverses occurred in the last three months than in any other quarter of the year, while the best exhibit in point of number was made in the spring, as is invariably the rule. Since more new enterprises are constantly being launched, some growth in the commercial mortality of the country is to be expected each year and the ratio of defaults to firms in business in 1914 was 1.10 per cent, or the highest in fully a decade and a half.

Examination of the insolvency statistics according to occupation shows that there were 4,620 failures in manufacturing lines last year for $135,636,270, against 4,243 in 1913, when the liabilities were $123,122,528. Two years ago 3,839 similar reverses were reported, with aggregate debts of $86,719,832, while in 1911 the record disclosed 3,502 suspensions for $87,371,623. Trading losses during 1914 numbered 12,851 and involved the exceptionally heavy amount of $165,864,852, as compared with 11,145 for $115,15,212 in the previous year, 11,011, for $91,779,965 in 1912 and only 9,480 defaults in 1911 for $84,239,679. Among agents and brokers and concerns not properly included in either the manufacturing or trading divisions, the exhibit was 809 insolvencies for $56,407,728, as against 649 for $34,434,548 in the year immediately preceding, 602 for $24,617,594 in 1912 and but 459 in 1911, when the indebtedness was less than $20,000,000.

SHIPMENTS OF WHEAT THROUGH NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, January 4.—Shipments of wheat to European ports through New Orleans amounted to 8,083,028 bushels during the month of December, 1914, according to statistics made public today here by the board of trade. The increase over December 1913, was approximately 7,500,000 bushels. New contracts covering shipments of more than 7,000 bushels this month are already signed, the board announced. The December shipments established a new monthly record for the port.

4 PERFORMANCES OF "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR"

By a change in the booking arrangements at the Atlanta the George Broadhurst play, "Bought and Paid For," will be given two nights and two matinees. The play will open Friday and remain Saturday, a matinee being played each day because of the demand from ladies for seats. The play is one of the biggest successes of the past few years and when originally booked only one night was open. A change in plans, however, made it possible for the show to be given two days; hence the four performances.

The bookings at the Atlanta have been increasing rapidly of late and many new successes are being routed through the city. Last night Charley McClintock arrived in advance of Raymond Hitchcock, who will come next week. He brought reports of record business for Mr. Hitchcock through the south and stated that the engagements had been extended to cover all southern territory. The Cotillion club will give its annual party the opening night of the Hitchcock engagement. The star will appear in a new musical comedy, "The Beauty Shop."

RECORDER SUGGESTS CITY PRISON FARM

In his annual report to the mayor and general council, Recorder George E. Johnson asserts that prisoners at the stockade, who are adepts in the use of alcohol and cocaine, are of no value to the city as street laborers.

The report recommends that the city purchase a tract of land near the city and there place all white inebriates and dope fiends to cultivate the soil and make the feedstuffs for the stock of the various city departments.

Judge Johnson points out that all the street sweepings, now destroyed in the crematory, could be used to enrich the soil of this farm.

He adds that the families of these dope fiends and inebriates be paid, during their incarceration, $3 a week.

LIGHT SENTENCES FOR TWO MERCHANTS

Judge Newman Monday sentenced G. Constangy and P. M. Shimoff, two retail merchants, who recently pleaded guilty to concealing their assets from the trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Confinement in the Fulton county jail, with the option of paying a fine of $1,000, was imposed upon Shimoff. Constangy was ordered to the federal prison for a year and a day.

The two merchants were represented in the case by Attorneys Luther Rosser, T. B. Felder, John Moore and Marion Smith.

TOBACCO SALESMEN SCOUT HARD TIMES

That optimism prevails in the tobacco business regarding the 1915 outlook was clearly shown Monday morning at an enthusiastic meeting of thirty salesmen of the American Tobacco company. J. B. Withers, of the New York office, presided over the conference, which was attended by salesmen of the Atlanta district, comprising North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Plans were discussed for increasing sales of this year over 1914, which was considered a good year for the business.

WHEAT TOUCHES HIGHEST PRICE SINCE MAY, 1909

Market Closed Strong at Gain of Two and Three-Quarters to Three and a Half Cents--Corn and Oats Higher.

HIGH OCEAN FREIGHT FROM SOUTH AMERICA

This Caused Foreign Buyers to Look to Chicago, and Result Was 1,800,000 Bushels Wheat Bought in Chicago Alone for Export.

Chicago, January 4.—For the first time, wheat today soared above the high price level that was made September 5 at the most exciting crisis of the German advance on Paris. On European buying that seemed nearly regardless of cost, wheat today touched $1.34 3-4 a bushel for May delivery, as against $1.32, which was the September 5 record, and until this morning had been the pinnacle since the famous James A. Patten "corner," May 25, 1909, when quotations reached $1.35 1-4. Closing prices today were strong at gains of 2 3-4 to 3 1-2, compared with Saturday night. Corn finished 1 1-2@1 5-8 to 1 7-8 up, oats at a rise of 5-8@3-4 to 1 1-4, and provisions varying from 5 off to 12 1-2 advance.

Broadening out of the purchase of wheat began at the very outset, but it was not until the last hour that the trade bordered on the sensational, even then there was no wild flurry.

Ocean freight rates from Argentina, so high that it seemed doubtful whether a quarter of the contracts already made to supply South American wheat to Europe would ever be filled, were the chief basis of the sentiment favoring an advance in Chicago. The result was a total of export sales here amounting to 1,800,000 bushels, not counting large transactions elsewhere.

Strength of corn and oats came in the main from the wheat bulge. The only conspicuous seller of oats was a firm prominent in the export wheat trade. It was surmised this firm might be more anxious to ship wheat abroad than oats, for which vessel room had been obtained.

Provisions were kept down by the large increase in the warehouse stocks of pork and ribs and by the big receipts of hogs. Lard, however, reflected the upturn in grain.

WHEAT BOUGHT HEAVILY

3,000,000 Bushels Purchased for Europe's Starving.

Chicago, January 4.—Europe's bitter need of bread resulted today in spectacular buying of wheat and caused new war prices here in earnest. It was pointed out, however, that the tiptop quotation attained today, $1.34¾ for May delivery, was still roundly 50 cents a bushel under the price forced here in 1898 by Joseph Leiter during a world-wide peace—$1.85.

Notwithstanding that wheat today at one time showed a rise of 3¾ cents over Saturday night, the upturn apparently had little, if any, effect on farmers. Country offerings were decidedly meager, as they have been for some time past.

Although the prime impetus for high prices today came from seemingly unlimited export demand, there was no doubt that the general public bought wheat heavily and especially so in the last hour of the session. Millers, too, were said to be anxious buyers, fearing that the tremendous export call would leave them short of supplies. Roughly, the total sales to Europe today in the United States were estimated at three million bushels. Of this aggregate, 750,000 bushels was definitely known to be for the relief of the starving people of Belgium.

Experienced observers failed to notice any usual excitement, despite the swift upward swing of the market. The one striking fact was the steady absorption of every bushel of wheat offered for sale.

Talk among brokers centered almost wholly on the idea that for the time being the United States was virtually the only big exporting nation in the world.

Wheat in St. Louis.

St. Louis, January 4.—May wheat reached $1.31⅛ on the Merchants' exchange here today, the highest price recorded for wheat since war began. The increase was attributed to heavy export demand and to the elimination of Argentine competition as a result of high ocean freight rates.

Spot Cotton Passes 8-Cent Mark; July Contracts Climb to 8.50

All Active Positions Make New High Ground for the Movement—July Sold at 8.50, or $5.45 Per Bale Above Low Level of December 1.

New York, January 4.—The cotton market today was more active than at any time since the resumption of business in futures, while prices ruled very firm, and all active positions made new high ground for the movement. Firmness in Liverpool, attributed to an increasing spot demand, combined with the continued absence of pressure from the large southern spot supplies, and the optimistic view as to the outlook for general business seemed to be chiefly responsible for the broadening of investment and demand, and there was considerable covering of shorts. Realizing caused moderate reactions during the day, but on every moderate setback fresh buying orders seemed to be uncovered. The close was firm at practically the best point of the day, or about 15 to 22 points above Saturday's closing figures.

The market opened steady, 7 to 10 points advance on the higher cables. There was some reactionary talk, accompanied by predictions that the advance of fully a cent a pound from the low level of last month would bring in hedge selling or increased spot offerings. There was also considerable realizing by recent buyers and a little selling here against purchases in New Orleans, but offerings were very well taken during the entire day and some of the early sellers seemed to be covering in the late trading when July contracts sold at 8.50, or $5.45 per bale above the low level of December 1.

Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands 8.05; gulf 8.30. No sales.

Good Buying in New Orleans.

New Orleans, January 4.—The first session of the New Year in the cotton market brought a net advance of 26 to 30 points, the market closing at nearly the best of the day. The market felt good buying power throughout the session, with the exception of a brief period in the early afternoon, when longs took profits in volume and brought about a 10-point reaction. At the highest of the day the trading months were 26 to 32 points up.

On the opening it was evident that buying orders had accumulated over the holidays. Gossip of the floor was that outside interests were heavy buyers, and one report was that German spinners and cotton merchants were buying on this side. Buying was stimulated by the strength of the spot markets, the advance in New York Saturday, the firmness of Liverpool and reports that cotton shippers were heavy buyers of ocean freight room.

It was the most active session and the advance was the widest since the resumption of future trading. March, at its best, was 91 points up from the low levels made on the long decline following the outbreak of the war in Europe.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON MARKET

New York, January 4.—(Special.)—Favorable cables from Liverpool regarding the demand for spot cotton, and an absence of hedge selling here, encouraged general buying in the local market today as a result of which prices advanced nearly a dollar a bale during the first two hours. Business showed a material increase in volume and although profit-taking sales were numerous, the buying of western continental and local interests absorbed these offerings at advancing figures. With a better feeling in financial circles, investors, as well as spinners, are taking more interest in the long side of cotton and their confidence grows as prices reach higher levels.

JAY BOND COMPANY.

New York, January 4.—(Special.)—Liverpool this morning made a very full response to our advance over the holidays and spot sales were 10,000 bales, which is the largest turnover in a single day for some time. Here, the market opened sharply higher in response to these cables and continued strong and more active through the day. There appeared to be less demand from the German houses, although buying from this source closed the market at the best of the day. The investment demand from the west and the north had not diminished on the advance. In fact, rather to the surprise of the trade there was active buying for this account today.

Local sentiment is again rather against the market, on the ground that the advance has been very rapid, and that as October approaches 9 cents there will be a lessening of the demand and rather more selling from the south.

Coffee.

New York, January 4.—Coffee was quiet today and after opening at an advance of 5 to 6 points, with active months selling about 7 to 10 points higher toward noon, on scattered covering, prices eased off toward the close. Steady primary markets probably promoted the early advance but the market was so narrow that it responded to small orders either way and there appeared to be no important change in the general situation. The close was 1 to 5 points higher. Sales, including exchange, were 13,500 bags.

Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 7½; Santos No. 4, 9⅝.

Total receipts at the two ports during December were 1,715,000 bags, against 1,461,000 last year. Rio and Santos cleared 505,000 bags against 1,461,000 last year. Rio and Santos cleared 505,000 bags for the United States and 675,000 for Europe during the past month.

ACTIVE AND STRONG WAS STOCK MARKET

The Leading Shares Gained From One to Three Points. New Record Price for New York City Notes.

New York, January 4.—Reopening of the London exchange, peace rumors from abroad which met with prompt denial as they affected this government, successful flotation of the $15,000,000 Argentine loan by United States bankers and some evidence of January reinvestment demand exercised more or less influence over today's moderately active and strong market for securities. Leading shares, especially the international division, rose from 1 to 3 points, with gains of almost as much in less prominent stocks. Incidentally the new year 6 per cent New York notes rose to a new record price, while exchange on London receded to within a fraction of its bottom figure of the previous year.

General news of the day included an unofficial estimate pointing to a substantial increase in December tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation, which will issue its statement at the end of the week, further inquiries for equipment by some of the leading railway systems and resumption of operations at a number of mills and manufacturing plants in different parts of the country.

Other features of interest were a new high record for wheat and a western freight movement partly in excess of this period last year. Trade advices from the middle west suggested definite improvement in general business. Railroads in the west and south made more adverse reports of earnings for November, St. Paul showing a net decrease of $784,000, and Louisville and Nashville a loss of $593,000.

Time loans for all dates were quotably unchanged, but actually lower where high-class collateral was offered. Interior banks loaned considerable amounts and renewed their recent buying of mercantile paper. Mystery attended the removal of $2,000,000 bar gold from the asssay office, the place of destination being withheld.

London's dealings in Americans were necessarily limited under the many restrictions imposed, New York Central being the only issue to manifest marked strength.

Early irregularity in bonds gave way to general firmness at the close. Total sales, par value, amounted to $1,454,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

FULTON BANK SEES BRIGHTER TIMES AHEAD

The Fulton National bank, in its financial review of the situation generally, says:

"The coming year will be an eventful one in American commercial history; we will manufacture and supply ourselves with many things which we have heretofore bought abroad; we will export many things which have heretofore found only a home market; those who must travel will probably 'See America' next year and the foreign tourist travel in this country, due to the Panama exposition, promises to be quite heavy. Business is convalescing and with proper nursing it should be hale and hearty in a few months."

Our Proven Safety

A SAFE bank is one whose security has been proved to the public, beyond peradventure. Proved, because bald assertions by the bank itself and mere belief on the part of the depositors, will not answer. Nor is a bank's safety proved by a single statement, however creditable. There are, however, excellent criteria of a bank's soundness, such as history, methods and management. This bank has fully met these tests, and offers its patrons the benefits of nearly half a century of eminently satisfactory banking.

PHILLIES SELL LOBERT FOR PLAYERS AND CASH

Giants Exchange Demaree, Stock and Jack Adams for Third Baseman.

New York, January 4.—The New York Nationals today obtained the services of Hans Lobert, third baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals, as the result of a trade consummated in Philadelphia.

In exchange for Lobert the Philadelphia club will receive a cash consideration and the following players: Al Demaree, pitcher; Milton Stock, third baseman, and Jack Adams, a younger catcher bought last fall from New Orleans. This announcement was made tonight by Manager McGraw, of the Giants.

OFFICIAL AVERAGES OF GA.-ALA. LEAGUE OUT

LaGrange, Ga., January 4.—(Special.) The official averages for the players in the Georgia-Alabama league last season have just been compiled, and shows Howell, the Newnan first baseman, to be in the lead in the batting, with an average of .332. "Rube" Zellars, the old Mercer pitcher; Shirley, Brooks, Knox, Flowers and Morefield, have higher averages than Howell, but they did not play in as many games.

Lamar with an average of forty-three stolen bases easily leads the league in this particular. His nearest rival is Jack Reidy, of Rome, who swiped thirty-one. Amason, of LaGrange, had the best fielding average at first base, with a record of .989; Holland, of LaGrange, with an average of .955, leads at second, while Crow, of Talladega, leads at third, with the average of .969. J. Donalson, of LaGrange, whose average was .923, has the shortstop record. Jack Reidy, of Rome, has the best outfielding record, with an average of .995. Proctor, of Anniston, is second, with an average of .993. Both men made only one error during the season. Taylor, of Rome, leads the catchers, with an average of .988, and Morrison, of Selma, leads the pitchers, with a perfect fielding record of 1.000. The record shows that there were forty-five men batting over .250.

LaGrange's success in her good rating during the past season was due mainly to her college players. Amason, Sid Holland and Jack Donalson all three led in fielding their infield positions. They were Tech products, while "Rube" Zelllars, of Mercer, not only led in batting, but won many games for LaGrange, and saved many games by relieving other pitchers in some close pinches.

JOHNNY DOBBS RENAMED NEW ORLEANS MANAGER

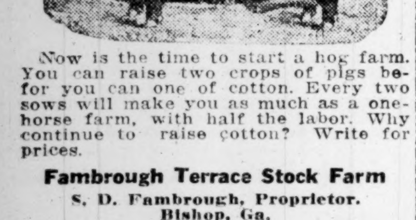

New Orleans, January 4.—John Dobbs today was reappointed manager of the New Orleans Southern association baseball club by the club's board of directors. All officers of the club, headed by A. J. Heinemann, as president and secretary, were reelected.

SMITH AND FORBES WILL BE OUT OF GAME SATURDAY

Although it was at first reported that the local A. A. C. quintet was in good shape after Saturday night's battle with Columbus in Columbus, it now looks as if two of the regular players will be out of the doings for quite a while, due to injuries received in the game. Captain Willingham Smith and Tillou Forbes, the two star forwards of Coach Joe Bean's aggregation, are laid up for repairs, and will hardly be able to be in the game Saturday night.

Captain Smith was hurt during the first few minutes of the game, getting his left eye cut so badly that seven stitches had to be taken by a physician on the injured member, while Forbes had his side hurt so badly that he had to consult a physician and have an X-ray photo made. Whether or not he is badly hurt internally is not yet known, but will be in the course of the day.

This certainly looks bad for the local club. With two of their star performers out of the game, the subs will have to be entrusted with the keeping of the local record clean.

The game Saturday night is sure to be a hummer. The Knoxville Tigers are reported to have a strong lineup, and with the above two regular players out of the game, matters will be all the more even for them, and harder for the local aggregation. The Knoxville quintet is composed of stars from the University of Tennessee, where they played a great game during their college days. They will come strongly touted, and expect to put up a strong argument for the game.

Frankie Burns Wins Easily in the Fourth Round From Conway

New Orleans, January 4.—Frankie Burns, of Jersey City, won over Frankie Conway, of Philadelphia, in the fourth round of a scheduled fifteen-round fight here tonight. With Conway apparently unable to defend himself, the referee stopped the fight. Early in the first round Burns weakened Conway with a stiff left hook to the jaw, in the second he hit him at will in face and body, and in the third a straight left sent Conway down for a count of five. The fight was stopped during the first minute of the fourth round. The weights were announced at 118 ringside.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Fifth Annual Tourney to Start at Pinehurst January 25.

Pinehurst, N. C., January 4.—(Special.)—Fast winning a place among the leading national tournaments is the fifth annual Country Club midwinter tennis championship scheduled for the full week of January 25-30.

The program is all comprehensive, including men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles, with challenge cup events for both men and women. J. D. E. Jones, the Rhode Island champion, the present titleholder, will defend against a fast field, which will have international character through liberal Canadian representation.

Details of arrangement are in the hands of a committee, including H. A. McKinney and J. D. E. Jones, of Providence, R. I., and Irving Wright and Edwin Sheafe, of Boston, Mass.

LAFITTE TO MANAGE LAGRANGE IN 1915

LaGrange, Ga., January 3.—(Special.) Even this early in the season the backers of the Georgia-Alabama league of this city are beginning baseball talk. It is practically a sure thing that professional baseball will be played in this city another year, and that Jim LaFitte will again manage the LaGrange club.

The present members of the Georgia-Alabama league are LaGrange, Newnan, Rome, Selma, Talladega, Opelika and Anniston. Gadsden, the only city that was in the league last year and failed to make a financial success, has given up her charter, and it will be disposed of at the next meeting of the directors, which will occur some time in the early part of February. Montgomery will probably purchase the berth. Other cities that have been mentioned in connection with this deal are Griffin, Cedartown and Carrollton.

SELECTION OF MORAN AS MANAGER RATIFIED

Pitcher Main Joins Federals.

RICHEST LAND OWNER IS CITY OF NEW YORK

New York, January 4.—The wealthiest land owner in the limits of the municipal jurisdiction, according to a report by Controller Prendergast, is the city of New York. The assessed valuation of the city's holdings is $1,447,547,869, of which $1,429,491,360 is within the city limits.

Compared with the figures of 1913 the value of the property shows an increase of $71,104,589. The increase in land values reaches the large figure of $41,689,078, while in the value of buildings and other improvements it totals $29,253,632.

SPEER OPPOSES BILL FOR ADDITIONAL JUDGE

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, January 4.—(Special.) Judge Emory Speer, federal judge for the southern district of Georgia, has written the senate judiciary committee a letter disapproving the Webb bill for the creation of an additional district judge during his incumbency on the bench.

The committee took no action today on the bill.

Following the report of the house judiciary committee recommending that impeachment proceedings be not instituted against Judge Speer, Representative Edwin Y. Webb, of North Carolina, chairman of the committee, presented a new bill for an additional judge to serve as long as Judge Speer remains on the bench.

The condition of Judge Speer's health and the accumulation of business was given as a reason for the bill's introduction. Last August James C. McReynolds, then attorney general of the United States, approved the bill, saying that conditions in the southern district were "lamentable," and in no other way could they be remedied.

"Under existing conditions, it seems to me essential that there should be another judge," he wrote.

Says Hostility Is Political.

Although the text of Judge Speer's reply to the senate commitee was not made public, I am able to state that he made a most skillful statement, insinuating throughout that the hostility to him was based upon political grounds, and the bill was simply a scheme to get a democrat as judge.

He told the committee he was 66 years and three months old, and stronger than the average professional man of his years.

He said that in the fall of the year he suffered from hay fever and on this account had been compelled to dispose of important cases outside of his district.

It is common for lawyers to request that he take up their cases, wherever he might chance to be in search of health.

"The business of the district is in no sense congested," asserted Judge Speer. He added that in the home district of the "Perspicacious and impartial" Representative Webb, author of the bill, there were 70 more cases on the docket.

He appended a statement from the clerk showing the cases undisposed of in the various divisions of the district.

UPPER ALSACE IS SCENE OF DESPERATE FIGHTING

tack, abandoning six machine guns and a number of prisoners.

"In West Galicia on January 2 we made progress again, taking more than a thousand Austrian prisoners and several cannon and machine guns. In the region of Uzsok Pass we took an equal number of prisoners and captured several guns and rapid firers. In this action an entire Austrian battalion with eleven officers, surrendered. In this region the staff of a column of the enemy, with the chief wounded, and all documents fell into our hands.

"On our extreme left wing, our troops passing through the whole of Bukowina, have occupied the town of Suczawa, one verst (two-thirds of a mile) distant from the Austro-Rumanian frontier."

SUBMARINE REPORTS SINKING FORMIDABLE.

Berlin, January 4.—(Wireless to Sayville).—An official announcement made public through the official press bureau today says:

"A German submarine boat reports by wireless to the admiralty in Berlin that it has torpedoed and sunk in the English channel off Plymouth, the British battleship Formidable.

"The submarine was pursued by British destroyers, but escaped undamaged."

FRENCH LOSE STEINBACH, THEN REGAIN IT.

Paris, January 4.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The only reports which have been received up to the present have reference to upper Alsace, where engagements of a very violent nature continue in the region of Cernay (Sennheim.)

"Last night our troops lost, then regained the territory around the church at Steinbach. This morning they occupied the entire village.

"The German works to the west of Cernay, captured by us yesterday, were lost for a brief period following a very violent counter attack, but the Germans were not able to maintain it, and this position remains in our hands."

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY CLAIMS VICTORY.

Vienna, January 4.—(Via Amsterdam.)—The following official communication was issued this evening:

"In severe battles in the district south of Gorlice, fought under the worst weather conditions, our brave troops assured themselves through getting possession of a high line of hills, a base for further operations.

"In the Carpathians there has been no change.

"In the upper Ung valley there have been only small engagements.

"During the battles in the northern theater at Christmas time we captured thirty-seven officers and 12,698 men."

ARTILLERY FIGHTING PARTICULARLY VIOLENT.

Paris, January 4.—The official statement given out in Paris this afternoon shows that the artillery fighting along the front is proceeding intermittently, and at some points with particular violence. There seems to have been few infantry attacks recently. The French admits failure in an effort to occupy a German position in the Meuse country. They claim, however, further progress in Steinbach. The text of the communication follows:

"From the sea to the Oise the day passed in almost complete calm. The weather was rainy. There were artillery exchanges at some points of the front. In front of Noulettes our heavy artillery reduced the German batteries to silence.

"On the Aisne and in Champagne the cannonading was particularly violent. Our batteries showed their superiority and brought under their fire reserve forces of the enemy. We became possessed of several points of support held by the Germans in the region of Perthes and of Mesnil-les-Hurlus.

"Between the Argonne and the Meuse as well as on the heights of the Meuse there was intermittent cannonading. An effort made yesterday morning by our troops to occupy Boureuilles did not succeed.

"Our advance continued in the forest of Le Pretre, which is to the northwest of Pont-a-Mousson.

"In upper Alsace we occupied an important height to the west or Cernay. A counter-attack by the enemy was repulsed.

"In Steinbach we have taken possession of the vicinity of the church and of the cemetery."

GERMAN EAST AFRICA CAPITAL IS STORMED

Nairobi, British East Africa, January 4.—(Via London.)—The British battleship Goliath and light cruiser Fox have carried out successful operations against Dar-es-Salaam, capital of German East Africa. The warships bombarded the town, inflicting considerable damage. All German vessels in the harbor were disabled. Fourteen European and twenty natives were taken prisoners.

The British loss was one killed and twelve wounded.

Dar-es-Salaam, the best built town on the coast of German East Africa, is a military station with an excellent harbor, forty miles south of Zanzibar. It is the terminus of an important caravan route, the residence of a governor and has large commercial interests. The white population in 1909 was estimated at 1,000; the total population at more than 20,000.

SHIP PURCHASE BILL WINS IN TEST VOTE

ca. He instanced the fact that cotton sold at 19 cents a pound in Germany when it was bringing 7 cents in the United States. Germany would consume 500,000,000 pounds of cotton if she could get it, he said, and the south had fifteen times that amount to sell.

Can't Obtain American Ships.

When the war began, Senator Fletcher declared, England had 5,000 and Germany 2,000 vessels in the over-sea trade, while the United States had only six. He said that American merchants gave annually to foreign ship owners $300,000,000 in ocean freights. Charter rates here had increased, in some cases 400 per cent, since the war began, he added, and ships under the American flag were not obtainable at any price.

The emergency bill opening American registry to foreign-built craft, Senator Fletcher said, had not met the needs of American manufacturers. He read lists of the 105 ships which transferred their flags to show that none was a first-class cargo boat, that over 50 per cent of these were ships of companies which needed them for their own business, and consequently added nothing to the facilities for the transportation of general cargoes.

"We must see to it," he said, "that a war between other countries shall never again cripple our industries for lack of ships."

An amendment to the bill submitted by Senator Stone designed to prevent secret shipment of contraband to foreign ports, would authorize the president to designate from time to time where customs collectors would be required to inspect all cargoes before loading. Heavy penalties would be imposed upon shippers and vessel masters for violations of the provision.

Discussion of the bill was deferred late in the day to make way for the urgent deficiency appropriation bill and other appropriation measures probably will take up as they come from the house. Republican leaders insist that many weeks will be consumed in debate on the measure.

In the minority report, the government ownership feature of the bill was discussed at length.

EXPECT FAVORABLE REPLY FROM LONDON

Conferences With British Ambassador and Sir Edward Grey Indicate Amicable Settlement of Contraband Problem.

Washington, January 4.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, called at the state department today for the first time since the United States sent its protest on shipping to Great Britain. He conferred with Counsellor Robert Lansing.

Though he has received no instructions concerning the answer to be made to the American note, the British ambassador indicated it would be of a most friendly character. It is understood that Sir Cecil regards the American note moderate in tone.

That Sir Edward Grey, in his talks with Ambassador Page, similarly showed that England received the American note in a most amicable spirit, and intended to ameliorate the shipping situation so far as was possible, was learned also today from high officials.

Certify American Cargoes.

Another development regarded as affording a solution of one point under dispute is Washington's decision to certify American cargoes as to their exact contents before leaving American ports. Secretaries Bryan and Redfield and Acting Secretary Peters, of the treasury department, conferred today on the formulation of a circular to be issued tomorrow urging co-operation between Amrican exporters, shippers and the government in regard to manifests of neutral ships used to carry American cargoes.

Exporters will be urged to accompany the products with affidavits telling exactly the contents of their shipments. Treasury officials will be instructed to certify that the manifests contain the articles mentioned.

Justification for detention of neutral vessels clearing from American ports is claimed by the British because contraband has been concealed in some cotton cargoes. It also is alleged that manifests when produced have not disclosed the whole of the cargoes. The British claim that the size of modern ocean vessels prevents a thorough search on the high seas necessitating the taking of the ships to a British port to be partially or wholly unloaded. Long delays sometimes resulting was one of the points of which the state department complained to the British government.

DRINK HABIT

For the good of those who are victims directly or indirectly of the drink habit, I have written and published a very interesting illustrated book which describes how I was freed completely from the craving and for several years I have not had any desire to touch a drop of anything alcoholic. My book contains information by following which thousands of drinkers have admittedly been saved.

Many men who do not want to be freed of drink curse have been secretly saved by wives, mothers or sisters. They did not realize what was happening until they found all desire had left them—they couldn't drink any more whiskey or beer—then they rejoiced at having been saved. My book has been proven many times worth its weight in gold to a multitude of families. Praised by physicians, judges, editors, clergymen and legions of others. Don't lose this notice; it may not appear again. Simply write Edward J. Woods, 534 Sixth Ave., 155-B, New York, N. Y., and you will soon receive the FREE book of valuable information in plain wrapper, and happiness may soon be yours. Correspondence confidential.

carry at their maximum elevation 21,000 yards, while "our 12-inch guns, on their standard carriage, carry 13,000 yards, but could be mounted so as to carry a similar distance to the foreign guns. It would take ten months to make the change."

Mr. Garrison said there were no 14-inch guns now in the coast defense of the United States proper, but that four such guns were being constructed for installation on the Pacific coast. He said that there were no guns of a larger size except the 16-inch gun destined for the Panama canal. He explained that there were two 14-inch guns already mounted in the Panama canal fortification and eight more being mounted.

Artillery Equipment.

"There now are in our possession," the secretary added, "624 modern field guns and howitzers, 226 additional ones appropriated for and under manufacture, a total of 860. We have on hand or under manufacture 580,000 rounds of ammunition for these guns and howitzers."

Chairman Hay remarked to Mr. Gardner during the hearing today that the British army reserve when the European war broke out "didn't amount to a row of pins," and that it was impracticable to get a reserve except in countries where there is a compulsory service. "As a matter of history," added Mr. Hay, "both the federal and confederate governments had to resort to conscription."

Gardner's Argument.

Representative Gardner, urging his proposal to investigate the nation's military preparedness, told the house military committee today that the "entire field army, militia, regulars and all of the United States would just about garrison Paris," and the United States today owns "little more than half of the number of guns Russia had at the battle of Mukden."

Mr. Gardner had a series of lively passages with members of the committee, which he arraigned for not summoning Generals Wood and Crozier to get their views on preparedness.

He quoted figures to show that the combined force of regular and national guardsmen would form a battle line 65 miles long, two-thirds of the way around Greater New York, and that, compared with European nations, the equipment of field guns of the United States army was negligible.

Mr. Gardner said he understood a confidential report at the war department said some of the French field guns daily shot away 500 to 600 rounds. Eight American field guns, he said, could shoot away ammunition as fast as government arsenals could make it. Secretary Garrison, he said, had directed army officers not to volunteer any statements, and that he doubtless was acting in sympathy with "white house ideas."

MAYOR FAVORS STRICT RULE FOR LOCKER CLUB

ager W. Zode Smith and the water commission for the efficient manner in which the affairs of the water department have been handled during the year, and he points out the various improvements made from time to time.

He also commends the Grady hospital management. He says:

The Grady hospital under its present management has certainly become a pride to the city of Atlanta. The people hardly realize the great benefit of that institution to Atlanta or they would have turned out en masse and supported them at the recent bond election. The superintendent of that institution is a man in the right place and he is doing a wonderful work for the means at his disposal.

On the school situation, Mayor Woodward says:

While it has always been a great pleasure to speak of our public school system in commendatory terms, realizing that it has always been a great asset to Atlanta, that a great many people desire to locate here on account of educating their children, but from the recent adverse criticisms of our school department it places one in a delicate position to speak about that department in matters of praise. I do not want to be understood as approving of that adverse criticism, for I do not, but I make use of that expression more for the purpose of referring to it as to the injurious manner such criticism does the city of Atlanta. Atlanta has a good school department. It has a great many good school houses; in fact, there are very few that are not apparently comfortable. Atlanta has always taken care of her school children and she will continue to do so regardless of adverse criticism. I cannot join in the movement to destroy our school system in the eyes of the world in order to attempt to advance a cause for a bond issue. I believe that a goodly sum of money could be utilized in our school system, yet I am one of those conservative citizens who believe that Atlanta will continue to take care of all the applicants for seats in our schools. While the finance committee will not be in position in making up their budget to give the school department all it asks for, yet I am constrained to believe and hope that the committee will deal generously with our school department.

Before bringing his report to a close, Mayor Woodward referred to the excellent work of the library board and the employees, and he pays a glowing tribute to City Warden Thomas Evans. He says that he is convinced that more relief is dispensed through the warden's office on the meager appropriation than through any other source in the city.

HARMONY IS SEEN IN MAYOR'S COMMITTEES

Alderman Maddox was made chairman of the electric light committee and was given places on bridges, nuances, salaries, streets.

Councilman Lee got the chairmanships of the electric and railway committees, board of electrical control and places on important committees. Councilman Freeman was made chairman of the building and grounds committee, and got five other places.

On the fire committee Mayor Woodward appointed Councilman Dallas, chairman, with Renfroe, Farlinger, Johnson of the sixth, and Reynolds as members.

The board of firemasters will have Alderman McDonald as chairman to succeed Alderman Armistead, who becomes vice chairman. The other members of the committee are Dallas, Farlinger, Lee, Johnson of the sixth, Renfroe and Reynolds.

Councilman Ashley was returned chairman of the sanitary committee, and Alderman Armistead will again be chairman of the school committee and ex-officio member of the school board. Alderman Ragsdale is chairman of the water committee, and Councilman McCord heads the buildings and grounds committee.

A complete list of the committees is printed elsewhere.

Following the appointment of the council committees, council went into the election of board members, and deferred the election of election managers until the next meeting.

The following were elected on the park board: Ben Lee Crew, eighth ward, re-elected; James J. Andrews, seventh ward, succeeds W. P. Anderson; James J. Belcher, third ward, re-elected; M. B. Young, ninth ward, re-elected.

One contest developed for a place on the park board. Charles H. Barnes was offered in opposition to Commissioner Belcher in the third. Belcher received 23 votes against 7 cast for Barnes.

W. W. Waits, who was selected by Councilman Jesse Wood for a place on the police board and who was withdrawn from the race to give the place to Jack Letton, was elected a member of the park board to succeed William Van Houten, who declined to stand for re-election.

On the school board, A. P. Morgan was re-elected from the tenth ward, and George Eubanks was elected to fill the vacancy in the eighth, caused by the retirement of Claude Buchanan.

Dr. Mincey Elected.

Dr. Ed Mincey was elected a member of the board of Grady hospital trustees, to represent the sixth ward. He was opposed by Dr. Walpole Brewer. Dr. Mincey received twenty votes, against ten cast for Dr. Brewer.

I. N. Brown was re-elected a member of the board of health from the ninth ward.

O. T. Camp was elected a member of the bond commission from the third, and S. S. Selig to represent the second.

J. W. Mason was elected a member of the board of health from the tenth ward to suceed Dr. J. A. Bomar.

City Attorney James L. Mayson submitted the following as assistants for the year:

W. D. Ellis, Jr., assistant city attorney; W. C. Puckett, investigator, and W. T. Buchanan, assistant investigator.

Alderman James W. Maddox, nominated by Councilman S. L. Dallas, was elected provisional mayor pro tem.

Coucilman Ashley endeavored to have the elections of board members postponed to an adjourned meeting which was proposed for Thursday afternoon, but because of the fact that a number of the boards meet today council voted against delaying action as regards the election of board members, but decided to postpone the election of managers of election to some future date.

MRS. A. M. CURTIS DIES NEAR CALHOUN, GA.

Mrs. A. M. Curtis, widow of the late Dr. W. M. Curtis, and mother of Dr. A. L. Curtis, died early this morning at the old homestead near Calhoun, Ga. Mrs. Curtis had been ill for some time, seriously so since Christmas.

She is survived by six children, A. L., D. C., W. H., R. B. and M. C. Curtis, and Mrs. A. S. Knight. Funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon, with interment in private graveyard.

DR. WILMER OPPOSES CHURCH INTERFERENCE

The announcement that Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the world famous evangelist, will hold a revival in Atlanta in the near future; the stirring address of Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and the request by Dr. R. R. Kime that the association recognize an organization now being perfected for the suppression of lawlessness in Atlanta were the chief things considered by the Evangelical Ministers' association, held Monday in the First Baptist church.

Great care will be taken in preparing for the revival to be held in Atlanta from February 14 to March 19. Dr. Chapman will be accompanied by Charles M. Alexander, the singer, who assisted Dr. Robert Torrey here several years ago. It was announced that the Baptist Tabernacle had been offered for the purpose of housing the crowds, but it was felt that this would be inadequate. Dr. H. M. DuBose and others spoke favorably upon the idea of erecting a building for the purpose. E. C. Callaway was appointed chairman of a committee to take this matter under consideration.

Scores Reformers.

Taking the subject "The Kingdom of Heaven and a Division of Labor," Dr. C. B. Wilmer severely scored moral reformers who think that they can today conduct city and state governments with the same rules used by the church. The church, he declared, is much farther advanced morally and, while it is to be hoped that the government may have the same ideals some day, they cannot come all at once. Dr. Wilmer believed in a division of labor. The government has its functions to perform, so has the church. Society should, therefore, render unto each the things that belong to them.

Dr. R. R. Kime announced that a league was being formed in the interest of law enforcement. He would not give out the names of those composing the league because he believed that publicity at the present time might injure its ultimate effectiveness. He, however, asked the association to vote its approval and send a delegation to the meeting to be held Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. Upon the motion of Dr. Lyman Hood action on this request was referred to the association's committee on law and law enforcement, the customary method of considering such proposals.

Dr. Kime stated that the league took it for granted that it was generally agreed that Atlanta is in a state of lawlessness, more or less. The purpose of the league, according to Dr. Kime, is to oppose vice and crime and to sustain the forces of temperance, morality and religion. It had no intention of allying itself with any party, but to offer candidates of its own choosing or to support those of the various parties whom it believes to be safe, sound, moral and economical.

BIG POULTRY SHOW LIST IS COMPLETE

This Year's Show of Georgia Poultry Association Promises to Be One of the Best Ever Held.

The entries of the big poultry show of the Georgia Poultry association which will be held in Atlanta January 11 to 16, closed last night at midnight and the list is now complete for the big exhibit.

The list indicates that this year's show will be one of the best ever held in the southern states. There are a large number of very fine birds entered.

By way of inducements there are premiums valuable enough and in sufficient numbers to warrant the trouble and expense that many have gone to to enter their exhibits in the Atlanta show.

There will, for instance, be fifteen handsome cups for some one to win. Besides, there is a long list of valuable prizes donated by friends of the association and merchants of Atlanta.

Alf Bertling, of Chamblee, Ga., the oldest poultryman in Georgia, will judge the poultry.

Joe Brown Connally, of Atlanta, will judge the pigeons.

The show room will be in the heart of the city at a point which will be announced later.

Rules of Show.

Here are the rules governing the general prizes:

1. All premiums, general and special, are open to the competition of the world, except club special and membership specials as herein otherwise noted.

2. Premiums will be paid promptly on the last day of the show if possible.

Seybt, prominent and wealthy citizen of this city, committed suicide this afternoon at his home in the suburbs of Anderson. CALOMEL SALIVATES AND MAKES YOU SICK

Acts Like Dynamite on a Sluggish Liver and You Lose a Day's Work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

THE RECKONING DAY

Casting up Accounts and making a reckoning is a question for the New Year.

A good statement, bearing the certificate of a Certified Public Accountant, will make loans comparatively easy.

Where the showing is not favorable, the Certified Accountant would doubtless prove a valuable ally in assisting you to retrench.
